

17th Century Stockade Unearthed

A Kingston Archaeological 'Find'

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON

"Most significant find in New York State." Thus Paul Huey, New York State Historic Trust archaeologist termed the discovery of the stockade post holes in up-town Kingston.

Remnants of the earliest portion of the palisade which protected the first settlers from the Indians came to light as a result of an archaeological dig conducted during the past two weeks by Professor Bert Salwen under a grant from the New York Council for the Arts.

Evidence of much of Kingston's early history was revealed in the excavation adjacent to the northwest curb of Clinton Avenue, opposite the Senate House. Luck was with the archaeologists as this particular spot was relatively undisturbed through the centuries, protected both by the curbing and the natural terrain.

What was revealed was evidence of the palisade ordered to be built by Peter Stuyvesant in May of 1658. Trouble with the Indians during that period prompted the order and the settlers abandoned their crops in order to build the palisade protection. The first section was in the area of the Senate House and this is the portion revealed in the current excavation.

The first visual evidence of this early stockade came to light on the brow of the bluff as greyish circles forming an unmistakable pattern. Professor Salwen, speaking of the find guardedly said that he didn't know that it is Peter Stuyvesant's stockade but the evidence is of the period and of a Dutch stockade.

After the initial discovery of post holes in the first excavation an additional dig was conducted 10 feet south and three more post holes were unearthed, confirming the existence of the stockade wall. Also revealed in the first excavation was evidence of a secondary row of posts indicating either a platform for guards to peer out into the flat lands or a block house as described in early documents.

The current excavation was the result of previous preliminary dig last year by Huey and his New York State Historic Trust team at the Converse Street ruins. The exploration was brief but revealing. Findings from this sifting of the past led to recommendations for further digs in the Stockade area. The Friends of Historic Kingston initiated the request for funds which was picked up by the Kingston Landmarks Commission and the $5,000 grant from the New York State Council of the Arts was obtained.

The findings are of such significance that both Huey and Professor Salwen characterize it as the most revealing in New York State. Although excavations of Indian sites have yielded valuable information concerning their culture, the Kingston dig reveals life of the early settlers which is very rare. Most early Dutch and English settlements in New York State have been obliterated by time and progress in the form of buildings and highways.

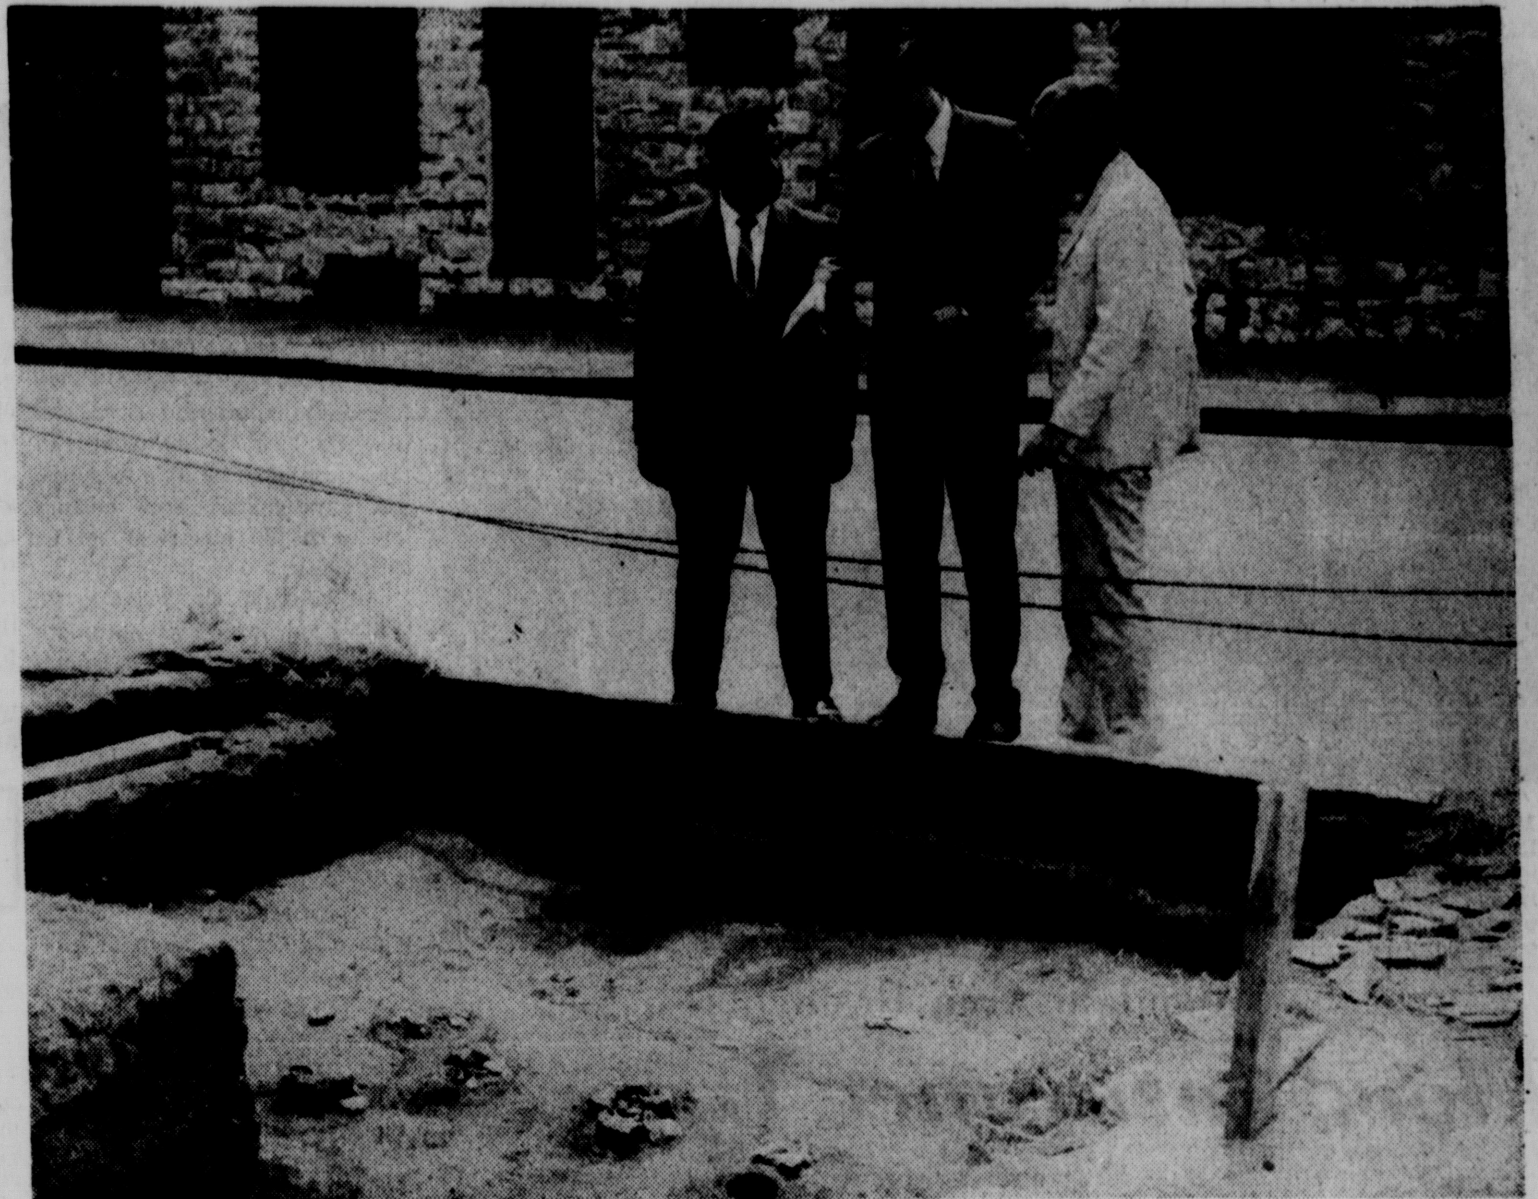

Professor Salwen, who is associate professor of anthropology at New York University, said the precious section of soil was "saved by the curb" and the steep bluff which prevented any extensive building in the area. When the dig was started it was feared the evidence of the early stockade might be beneath the roadway rather than close to the brow of the bluff. General information of the stockade boundaries is documented but exact location was not known until the exploration revealed the post hole evidence.

To preserve the fragile evidence, the post holes were protected with plastic linings and the excavation has been refilled. It is hoped that a display may be worked out that will clearly illustrate living history of the area. Fred Johnston of the Landmarks Commission said that although plans are not definite at the present time it may be possible to show a portion of the dig and to reconstruct a section of the stockade as visual evidence of the way it was on the historic Senate House corner at the time of great Indian massacre in 1663.

Johnston said that the find would be offered to the state and could become a valid extension of the Senate House Park—Museum complex.

The archaeological team sifted through many compact layers of Kingston's history including evidence of the burning by the British in 1777. Close to the palisade posts were numerous Indian arrow points indicating sieges. Pottery shards, coins and oyster shells were found along the way. Bedded in the early layers was a Dutchman's clay pipe.

Stuyvesant had ordered the stockade to be built at the time of the first Esopus War with the Indians. Soldiers and settlers dropped everything to raise the palisade walls in the John Street, Fair Street, Clinton Avenue area. So effective was the stockade in warding off Indian raids that the protection was extended over to Green Street and up to Main Street. Documents reveal that the stockade was repaired at numerous times from 1652 to 1711 and that portions of it were still standing in 1711 although protection from the Indians had long since ceased to be a concern of the "Wildwyck" burghers.

THE EVIDENCE—Peter J. Savago, (L) Ulster County Legislature chairman; Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Fred Johnston, chairman of the Kingston Landmarks Commission study the evidence of the Old Stockade revealed by an archaeological excavation. Traces of the palisade posts are said to be the "most significant" find of an early settlement in New York State. (Freeman photo by Haines.)

Fatality, Drownings During the Weekend

By WALTER S. CLARK

ROSENDALE

Accidental death toll in New York State during the weekend included a 19-year-old Bloomington youth who was killed when struck by a car and two drowning mishaps that occurred in Dutchess and Columbia Counties.

A bizarre accident occurred on the State Thruway near Albany Sunday, according to state police who reported a 56-year-old Quebec man was decapitated when he stood up in the back of a truck and hit an overpass.

Another unusual accident claimed the life of a 31-year-old Bronx man who was killed Saturday by a bolt of lightning that struck him as he played baseball during a family outing on Staten Island.

Kingston State Police said Gary Quick of Bloomington was struck and killed at 3:40 a.m. yesterday when he was hit by a car as he walked along Route 32 near Maple Hill. The driver of the car, Gerald Malo, 35, of 46 Grand Street, Kingston, was cited for driving while intoxicated.

Mallo told Investigator Thomas Searles, Sergeant R. J. Dempsey and Troopers W. T. Wilson and A. J. Scarselli he swerved to avoid an object he saw moving on the highway and later learned it was the pedestrian. Quick was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital. Coroner Henry S. Hartley also investigated.

Rhinebeck State Police investigated the drowning of a 16-year-old boy, who had reportedly gone bathing with a group of friends in a pond off Slate Quarry Road after attending a party at a private residence.

Troopers said Harold T. Elem of the Town of Rhinebeck and friends went to the pond to swim late Saturday night. The youth was reported to be a victim of arthritis and could not swim but he went bathing in the darkness.

The other youths told Sergeant P. D. Clarke that they got out of the water at the pond on the property of W. Lee Stewart at about 11:15 p.m. and while they were dressing they noticed Elem was missing. A search by the group failed to find the youth, whose clothes were found on the shore.

Troopers were summoned and the Rhinebeck Rescue Squad of the Fire Department went to the scene with police. The body was recovered in about six feet of water about 40 feet off shore. Dr. E. Allen Larkin of Amenia, a Dutchess County medical examiner, pronounced Elem dead. A verdict of accidental death due to asphyxiation by drowning was given by authorities.

The victim of the Columbia County drowning was identified by Claverack State Police as 21-year-old Wing Lew of 2 Dogwood Drive, Scarsdale, Westchester County.

Troopers said Lew entered the water at the main beach known as Robinson Lake at the Taconic Shores near Copake at about 9:45 a.m. yesterday. He was seen to take a few strokes and suddenly he began to flounder about 30 feet off shore. A lifeguard at the resort, Frank Kemmer Jr., who had just reported for duty, leaped into the water and recovered Lew about 15 minutes after the youth went below the surface. The youth was taken from the lake in about eight feet of water.

A rescue squad was summoned from a nearby community and efforts by the first aid crew and the lifeguard failed to revive Lew.

State Police Lieut. J. J. Fremante, BCI Investigator George Sager and Coroner Newton Watts of Chatham investigated at the scene. A verdict of accidental death due to drowning was given.

Meanwhile, Ellenville State Trooper D. H. Dymond reported two youths were injured at 1:15 a.m. today when the car in which they were riding went out of control on Route 44-55 a mile east of Route 209 and overturned. The injured were taken to Kingston Hospital.

Dymond said the vehicle was driven by Robert McCormack, 20, of Shirley, reportedly a student at the State University

Festival Promoter Vows More Despite Arrest

SAUGERTIES The arrest of Sound Festival, Woodstock promoter Ian Hain Saturday night for violation of this town's assembly law will not deter him from scheduling another mini sound-out this coming Saturday, Hain told The Freeman today.

The laws, he said, are becoming more and more restrictive and it's becoming a trend throughout the country. He noted it's time that someone takes a stand, and he declared, "We will take a stand."

The widely-publicized sound festival went off as scheduled

Saturday night despite denial of the promoter's application for a permit under Local Law No. 5. Town of Saugerties Police officers conducted a head count at the gate of the Copeland farm on Glasco Turnpike and when the total reached 210 they went to the gate and asked Hain to surrender himself.

He was arraigned before Acting Police Justice Robert Schirmer on the charge of conducting an assemblage without a town permit. According to the town's assemblage law a permit is required on private property for more than 200 persons.

Sound Festival attorney William C. Mullany advised the court that action is pending in State Supreme Court to have the local law declared unconstitutional. Justice Edward S. Conway on Friday in Albany reserved decision on the festival's show cause order and gave the town 10 days to answer the order.

Acting Town Justice Schirmer released Hain in the custody of his attorney pending the Aug. 5 hearing. Town Police Commissioner Francis Hallion and Sgt. John Pavlak arrested Hain at the festival gate.

Mullany said the situation was "disheartening." He noted that Hain had made many improvements at the festival site since the July 4 weekend concerts. He said the parking situation had been cleared.

Hain said he must overcome the bad publicity in relation to the town's action. He said the same type, one-day concert will be held this coming Saturday from 12 noon to 11 p.m. Delaney and Bonnie and Friends will be featured, he noted.

Citing the unfairness of the law, Hain noted that more than 5,000 were permitted to assemble at Cantine Field during the firemen's convention and there was a lack of adequate sanitary facilities. He also cited the Glasco Firemen's bazaar which he said was held on private property, also without proper sanitary facilities.

Town Supervisor A. Michael Schovel, commenting on the festival said there was nothing wrong with the music and young people having fun. However, he questioned the moral aspects and conditions created by those attending the gathering. He again reiterated that the local law would be enforced. Schovel said he and Town Police Chief Charles P. Riley inspected the scene and he observed that the music was very loud. Schovel said he sympathized with residents in the area who were disturbed by the loud music.

No incidents were reported and police authorities attending in full force noted that traffic conditions were much improved over the July 4 weekend event.

Qualified Acceptance by Israel

Arabs Divided on Proposal

By United Press International

The Israeli and Egyptian air forces traded strikes across the Suez Canal today in another escalation of their conflict. The Arab world was divided sharply over U. S. peace proposals and 15,000 Palestinians paraded through Amman to show their anger at calls for a cease-fire.

Israeli planes also ranged into Jordan and struck Arab guerrilla bases and Jordanian army positions in retaliation for a night of shelling of Israeli border villages by guerrillas based in Jordan.

For Israel the strike against

Egyptian positions at the northern and southern end of the canal was the 66th consecutive day of strikes against SAM2 and SAM3 missile bases and artillery. The foray by what Israel said was "several" Egyptian planes was the first such strike in weeks. Four Israeli soldiers were reported wounded.

The Arab world was still awaiting Israel's reply to the U. S. peace proposal but Tel Aviv dispatches indicated it would be a qualified acceptance. Jordan accepted it but Syria, Iraq and the Arab guerrilla organizations rejected it as some sort of surrender. Israel was reported willing to accept the U. S. plan for peace talks provided there is a guarantee that Egypt will not use the three-month cease-fire to build up its Suez Canal Line. The Israeli cabinet met Sunday but was too divided to make a public statement. Another cabinet meeting was called for Tuesday.

The Arab guerrillas were so angry they paraded through Amman and shouted slogans against Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and King Hussein of Jordan. It was the first Arab demonstration against the American proposals. Israeli political sources in Tel Aviv said Israel's answer to the U. S. plan would be basically affirmative, its tone and wording to be hammered out later this week. The final answer, they said, probably will be delayed until next week.

Indications emerged that Mrs. Meir was meeting substantial opposition to the plan within the cabinet. After a five-hour meeting Sunday, the cabinet scheduled a special session for Tuesday. Mrs. Meir canceled a speech scheduled for today until Wednesday.

Esopus, Marlboro

$1,660,000 County Projects

ALBANY Bids will be opened Aug. 27 at Albany for two Ulster County highway projects in Esopus and Marlboro totaling $1,660,000 according to announcement made today by Commissioner T. W. Parker of the State Transportation Department.

The Esopus project calls for the widening and resurfacing of Rt. 213 for five miles in the Town of Esopus. The present 18-foot wide road will be widened to 270 feet and resurfaced with asphalt from Rt. 32 to about 700 feet north of Wagner Road. Drainage improvements will be made and new roadside guide railings installed. The improvement is estimated at $580,000.

In Marlboro, the project calls for reconstruction of Rt. 9W for 0.6 mile northerly from a point about a half-mile north of the community of Marlboro. The highway will be rebuilt with a 24-foot wide asphalt pavement plus a 12-foot wide climbing lane, partly on an improved alignment and grade to the west of the existing road. Drainage improvements will be made and new traffic signs put up. The cost is estimated at $1,080,000.

On the hearing the announcement of the Esopus project. Town Supervisor George Freer called it "most welcome" saying that the road improvement is long overdue. He said he had pointed out the need for the project in the past and has called the state's attention to what he terms other road hazards in Esopus.

The Rt. 113 improvement, he said, is imperative due to the fact that part of the road has already been widened between Eddyville Bridge to near Wagner Road. Freer explained that this two lane section has become a speedway and presents a hazard where it narrows down to the 18 foot road. He has also called for a stop sign or stop light at the intersection of Rt. 213 and New Salein Road and for lighting of the Rt. 213 and Union Center Road intersection.

Freer also said he has pointed out still another road hazard, that of Dashville Road Rt. 32 area which he says has been sliding away and has been rebuilt several times.

With regard to the state's present proposed project, Freer expects that preliminary work will begin this Fall if the bids are acceptable with major construction probably scheduled for Spring.

MONEY FOR BS LEANTO — A check for a four-boy leanto at the Camp Tri-Mount Scout Reservation in East Jewett, operated by the Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scouts of America, is presented to the scout camp chairman, Henry P. Eighmey (R) by President Harry Hines, Stanley Hankinson of the Boys and Girls Committee of the Kiwanis Club watches presentation. The leanto will be built on a new road leading to Dead Horse Lake on the scout camp property. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Rosendale Area Residents

Flood Insurance Offered

HIGHLAND Residents along the Rondout Creek in the Rosendale area are now eligible for flood insurance according to the Wallkill Valley Flood Forecasting Committee, a division of the Mid-Hudson Area Flood Group.

According to Stephen DeMare, Highland, public information officer for the flood group, other areas recently approved for flood insurance were Arlington, VA., Metairie, La., and Fairbanks, Alaska.

The flood project in Rosendale has been under construction for the past two years and is about 95 per cent completed, DeMare noted.

He said that communities that show initiative in curbing flood hazards by adopting flood control projects, are more recognized by insurance companies than in high-risk, flood-prone areas.

Officials in Ulster County interested in obtaining more information may write to the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), Washington, D.C. 20410.

The Mid-Hudson Area Flood Group operates in six counties:

Ulster, Greene, Orange, Putnam, Dutchess and Columbia and is interested in all environmental problems, especially dealing with water flow.

Composed of interested citizens, they also are interested in flood forecasting. Flood control and cooperate with the U. S. Weather Bureau and the U. S. Geological Survey as well as police and fire agencies.

PSC Not Sure On Gas Supply

NEW YORK (AP) — The chairman of the state Public Service Commission says with a little luck Consolidated Edison Co. should be able to supply its metropolitan area customers with full electrical service this week.

But Joseph C. Swidler, the PSC head, was less optimistic Sunday about future gas supply prognostications. He said gas utilities may be unable to meet public demands for heating within a year or two.

Swidler spoke during a television interview.

He said Con Ed has already arranged to purchase 520,000 kilowatts and plans to add between 550,000 and 800,000 kilowatts of power secured from the Tennessee Valley Authority and other sources during the week to meet an expected peak demand of 7.4 million kilowatts by Wednesday.

"If there are no more equipment failures, Con Ed should be able to get through this week," Swidler said.

The giant utility lost its 1-million kilowatt "Big Allis" plant in Queens last week, two months after a 260,000 kilowatt nuclear power plant at Indian Point, Buchanan, N.Y., was incapacitated.

Swidler warned of a possible gas shortage—affecting those using gas for heat—by the winter of 1971-72.

In Albany, the PSC announced an investigation into the gas supply problem, to include a determination of whether gas utilities should be restricted as to the number of additional customers they might connect.

Swidler appeared on the WCBS-TV "Newsmakers" program.

Two Vol Units in the Biggest Parade in 35-Year History

GARDINER FIRE COMPANY

Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association closed its three-day convention in Saugerties Saturday with the biggest parade in its 35-year history. More than 3,000 marchers paraded under partially sunny skies in the village while heavy rains drenched the surrounding areas. Marlboro Hose Co., and Auxiliary won first place trophies and Kerhonkson Fire Company Auxiliary won a first and the vols won a second place award. Other first place winners under the marching units were Wallkill Hooks, New Paltz Fire Department, Modena Fire Company. Second place winners included Pioneer Hose, Ellenville; Saxton Fire Department, Centerville Fire Department and Active Hose, Rosendale. Glasco won first for most men; Pioneer for longest distance traveled. Tarrytown VFW won senior drum corp honors and junior winner was Queens Village Queens, Warwick. The awards were presented at Cantine Field. (Freeman photos by Kruh).

WOODSTOCK FIRE COMPANY

Rocky's Move May Have Neutralized John

NEW YORK (UPI)—Governor Rockefeller in effect removed a thorny issue from the gubernatorial campaign when he named Robert F. Wagner to head a commission on "home rule." The perpetual clamor of the cities for more "home rule" and greater financial aid has been bugging governors for generations, and Rockefeller has heard plenty about it during his 12 years in Albany. Mayor John V. Lindsay played a leading role in mobilizing the "big six" mayors during the recent legislative session to shake the collective municipal fist in the direction of Albany. There was little doubt at the time that when Rockefeller dug into the state coffers last spring to "find" a $469-million package of financial goodies for New York City he wasn't unaware of his coming fight for reelection. Lindsay had said pointedly and repeatedly that he and other mayors would support the appointment of Wagner to the special commission may have accomplished Lindsay's neutrality. When Lindsay was asked about the Wagner appointment at his City Hall news conference last week he said, "It shows the governor recognizes the importance of the home rule program. Mr. Wagner understands the problem and I am sure he will make a great contribution." In other words, without doing anything about it, Rockefeller made it seem he had done something about it. All the governor said was that he hoped Wagner would come up with something in time for the 1971 legislature. He said the former mayor and his colleagues should make recommendations "giving the cities maximum authority to conduct their own affairs." If Wagner still talks like he did when mayor, "maximum authority" will be quite a lot more than Rockefeller ever has shown an inclination to let the cities have. Rockefeller also spoke about asking Wagner to evaluate the "fiscal relations" between the city and the state. If Wagner in office is typical of what Wagner the commission head will think, he will think the "fiscal relations" stink. Wagner made a wry joke of sending his annual "Christmas Letter" to Albany begging for money for his hard-pressed city, and he and Rockefeller were constantly at swords point, with Wagner, like Lindsay after him, accusing the statehouse of "short-changing" the city. Wagner wrung from Albany a city sales tax, much as Lindsay later was to wring out an income tax.

Buckley Open to Help From Governor's Backers

By United Press International James L. Buckley, Conservative party candidate for the U.S. Senate, says he is not trying to identify his campaign with that of Governor Rockefeller but would accept support from organizations which also support the governor. Buckley said Sunday he would embrace the assistance "of any" that he believes he'd be the best asked if he was trying to pin-gan, said, Buckley maintains representative in the Senate in his candidacy to Rockefeller's residences in Connecticut and the United States. At the state Republican convention in April, some conservative delegates considered whether to put Buckley's name up to challenge Goodell for the GOP nomination. At that time, GOP State Chairman Charles T. Langan let it be known that such a move would not be welcomed by party leaders. "We're not looking outside our party and certainly not outside our state for candidates," Langan said. Buckley maintains residences in Connecticut and New York. Only the "large corporate giants" will benefit from President Nixon's proposals for a settlement of Mid East hostilities, Ottinger said Sunday. The Democrat branded the proposal, recently accepted by Egypt and Jordan, a "clear sell-out" of both Israel and United States interests. The peace formula provides for a 90-day cease fire and a resumption of United Nations mediation efforts predicated on Israeli withdrawal from territories occupied after the 1967 war. Arab acceptance of Israeli sovereignty and freedom of navigation in the Suez Canal. "This places Israel in a completely untenable position," Ottinger said. "Israel would have to lay down her arms for 90 days in the face of the Syrian and guerrilla refusal to accept the peace proposal." Ottinger also released a mercury pollution report prepared at his request by the Environmental Health Laboratory of Farmington, Mich. The report showed that mercury contamination in fish taken from Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River exceeds by as much as 175 per cent the maximum limit set by the Food and Drug Administration. While noting that state officials have warned against eating fish taken from the waters of Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence, Ottinger said they had concealed the full extent of the health danger. Regular consumption of fish polluted by mercury can cause serious and permanent physical and nerve damage. Other bass samples showed levels of 0.79 and 0.73 parts per million, and the perch samples registered 0.84, 0.61 and 0.41, he said. Ottinger said he asked for the private study because the state has not made public results of its own studies and has concealed the full extent of danger.

Would Halt St. Lawrence and Ontario Fishing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing Ottinger, the Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate from New York, said the study had all but one showed levels of mercury contamination in excess of the maximum safe level set by the Food and Drug Administration — 0.5 parts per million. One bass sample, taken from the northeastern edge of the lake at the headwaters of the St. Lawrence, showed a level of 1.2 parts per million, Ottinger said in a statement. He said regular consumption of such fish can cause serious and permanent physical and nerve damage. Other bass samples showed levels of 0.79 and 0.73 parts per million, and the perch samples registered 0.84, 0.61 and 0.41, he said. Ottinger said he asked for the private study because the state has not made public results of its own studies and has concealed the full extent of danger.

Hyatt Going to Typos' 112th Parley in Buffalo

KINGSTON The Kingston Typographical Union. Hyatt's trip to Buffalo will mark the first time in its 75-year history that the Kingston local has sent a delegate to an International convention. A former president of the Kingston Board of Water Commissioners, Hyatt was also a delegate to the 74th session of the Empire State Typographical Conference at Glens Falls in 1955. The International Typographical Union, founded in 1852, is the oldest labor union in North America. Delegates at the Buffalo convention, which will last seven days, will be discussing the challenges of new and constantly changing procedures. An estimated 450 delegates from every state and Canada will attend the convention. It was also announced that the Kingston Typographical Union will host the Empire Typographical Conference in October, 1971. About 100 printers, representatives of their own local unions, will gather in Kingston for a three day conference, and the 75th anniversary of the Kingston Local.

Palmyra Pageant Begins Tonight

PALMYRA, N.Y. (AP) — The Hill Cumorah Pageant, commemorating the founding of the Mormon church, begins tonight on the hill where the 3-million-member religion got its start nearly 143 years ago.

The pageant is held on Hill Cumorah where in 1827, Mormons believe, the angel Moroni presented Joseph Smith with golden tablets relating the story of a Christian nation in ancient America. The tablets, translated by Smith, became the Book of Mormon and the basis of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

A cast of almost 500 young men and women will perform in the six-day pageant. The pageant depicts scenes from the flight from Jerusalem by the prophet Lehi shortly before that city's destruction by the Babylonians, to the translation of the golden tablets by Joseph Smith.

At a ceremony Sunday, about 3,000 Mormons gathered on the Peter Whitmer farm near Waterloo for the dedication of a tourist center. The center is on the site where in 1830 six men met and founded the Mormon Church.

N. Eldon Tanner of Salt Lake City, a leader of the church, said in a speech that the center would be dedicated "to the purpose of helping visitors to know and understand that the gospel of Jesus Christ has been restored to the earth."

Tanner, second counselor in the First Presidency, and Marion D. Hansk, an assistant to the church Council of the Twelve Apostles, are in western New York to attend the pageant. They will also visit the Eastern U.S. Canadian Mormon boy scout encampment this week at Letchworth State Park.

Tate Murders

Eyewitness on Stand

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The state's only alleged eyewitness to the Sharon Tate murders was scheduled to testify under courtroom guard today against Charles Manson and three female members of his "family."

Linda Kasabian, 20, who will be granted immunity in return for telling her story, was to take the stand after the defense cross-examines a young caretaker at the Tate estate the night of the slayings last Aug. 8-9.

William Garretson, 19, told the jury in the trial's opening testimony that he was awakened at dawn but heard no shots, screams, or loud noises in his bungalow which is located on the other side of the swimming pool from the main residence.

Garretson said he first learned of the killings of Miss Tate and four others when police burst into his cottage with drawn guns the next morning. He was at first charged with suspicion of murder in the slayings but later released.

Mrs. Kasabian, who lived with the hippie cult at the Spahn Ranch commune at the time of the five killings at the Tate home and two others at the home of grocer Leno LaBianca has been isolated from the other defendants and kept under special guard pending her testimony.

Deputy District Attorney Vincent T. Bugliosi said in his opening statement that Mrs. Kasabian actually saw three killings at the estate rented by Roman Polanski, the movie director husband of the blonde actress.

Bugliosi said she witnessed the killings of coffee heiress Abigail Folger, Polish writer Voltych Frykowski and 18-year-old Steven Parent, who had been visiting young Garretson. Their bodies were found outside the home. Miss Tate and hair stylist Jay Sebring were inside the rambling ranch home.

Mrs. Kasabian was said by the state to have driven members of the family the next night to the LaBianca home and acted as a lookout there. Bugliosi said Manson ordered her and others of his cult to carry out a killing at a third home that same night of Aug. 9 in the beach front community of Venice, Calif. But, he said, Mrs. Kasabian deliberately thwarted it by knocking on the wrong apartment door.

On trial with Manson are Susan Atkins, Patricia Kernwinkel and Leslie Van Houten.

The district attorney charged that Manson ordered the murders in an attempt to touch off a black-white race war by having the killings blamed on Negroes.

Brother Of Ray Charged

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI) — Jerry Ray, brother of the assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has been charged with shooting a young American Nazi party member in the stomach.

Detectives said Ray told them he shot the youth Saturday night while frustrating an attempt to remove records from the local headquarters of the National States Rights party headed by attorney J. B. Stoner.

Stoner, a white supremacist candidate for governor of Georgia, said he would represent Ray at today's arraignment proceedings. Ray, who said he was Stoner's campaign manager and security man, was to be charged with aggravated assault.

Stoner, whose campaign has drawn criticism for its violent verbal attacks on Negroes and Jews, was in Zebulon addressing a Ku Klux Klan rally when the shooting occurred and said late Sunday he was "still in the dark about the circumstances."

The identity of the 16-year-old youth could not be disclosed because he was technically under a hold order on suspicion for theft. Hospital authorities reported him in fair condition with a bullet wound in the stomach.

Chatham County Superintendent of Detectives Al St. Lawrence said Ray told him he discovered the youth trying to remove a box of records from the headquarters of Stoner's party.

St. Lawrence said the youth was shot in the stomach with a .38 caliber pistol. The files, he said, contained "a bunch of names and addresses" which he did not understand the significance of.

The detective said the youth, originally from Athens, Ala., was a member of the National Socialist White People's party — one of the names used by the American Nazi party — and had worked for Stoner's party for about a month.

"The boy came over from Alabama several weeks ago to help me with the campaign," Stoner said, "but he went back about a week ago. He was supposed to be in Alabama."

Stoner said Ray, brother of James Earl Ray who is also a client of Stoner's is "one of my best friends" and "has always been a very peaceful person. He wouldn't shoot anybody unless he had to."

IBM Promotes Three

KINGSTON Three IBM employees have recently been promoted including Jonathan Oseas to senior programmer in the Kingston Laboratory of IBM's Systems Development Division; James T. Whelan to senior systems manager, CMIS Alpha, at IBM's Systems Manufacturing Division plant in Kingston; and Jeffrey A. Stark to senior programmer in the Kingston Laboratory of IBM's Systems Development Division.

Oseas, System Modeling manager, joined IBM in October, 1956 as an advisory programmer in Time Sharing Systems at the Mohansic Laboratory. In November, 1968, he was made manager of Design Analysis. A post he held until August, 1969 when he transferred to Kingston to become manager of System Modeling.

Oseas is a member of the American Society for Quality Control, the Association for Computing and a senior member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers.

He attended Ohio Wesleyan University, Bard College, where he received his AB in physics and New York University where he obtained a master's degree in physics.

Oseas, his wife Iris and the couple's four children, reside in Hurley.

Whelan joined IBM in July, 1957 as a SAGE field engineer at the MIT Lincoln Laboratory. In February of 1960 he transferred to Kingston and was promoted to associate system test engineer. From June, 1960 until March, 1967, Whelan held a number of programming posts in the Kingston Laboratory. At that time he was promoted to new products administrator.

In September, 1967, Whelan was promoted to project manager, System Test. He was named project manager, CMIS Planning and Integrity in March, 1969, a post he held until this promotion.

A native of Brooklyn, he has attended St. Peter's College and Brooklyn College.

Whelan, his wife Jean and the couple's five children, reside in Saugerties.

Stark, who is also Time Sharing System Architecture manager, joined IBM in September, 1962 as a senior associate programmer at the Mohansic Laboratory. In December of 1965 he was promoted to I/O supervisor, and Access Methods manager in the programming area there. From September, 1967 until July, 1968, Stark was at the Mohansic Laboratory as Time Sharing System Auxiliary and Standalone Programs manager.

In July, 1968, Stark accepted a position as technical assistant to the Time Sharing System Engineering manager. Since January, 1969, Stark has been the Time Sharing System Resident Supervisor Design manager.

Stark earned a bachelor of arts degree and a master's in business administration from New York University.

He, his wife Lola and the couple's two children reside in Carmel.

Attend Conference

KINGSTON William C. Klein of this city and Gunther A. Meyer of Woodstock were among the several hundred Massachusetts Mutual Life insurance agents attending the Company's Leaders Club Conference at the Washington-Hilton in the Nation's capital recently.

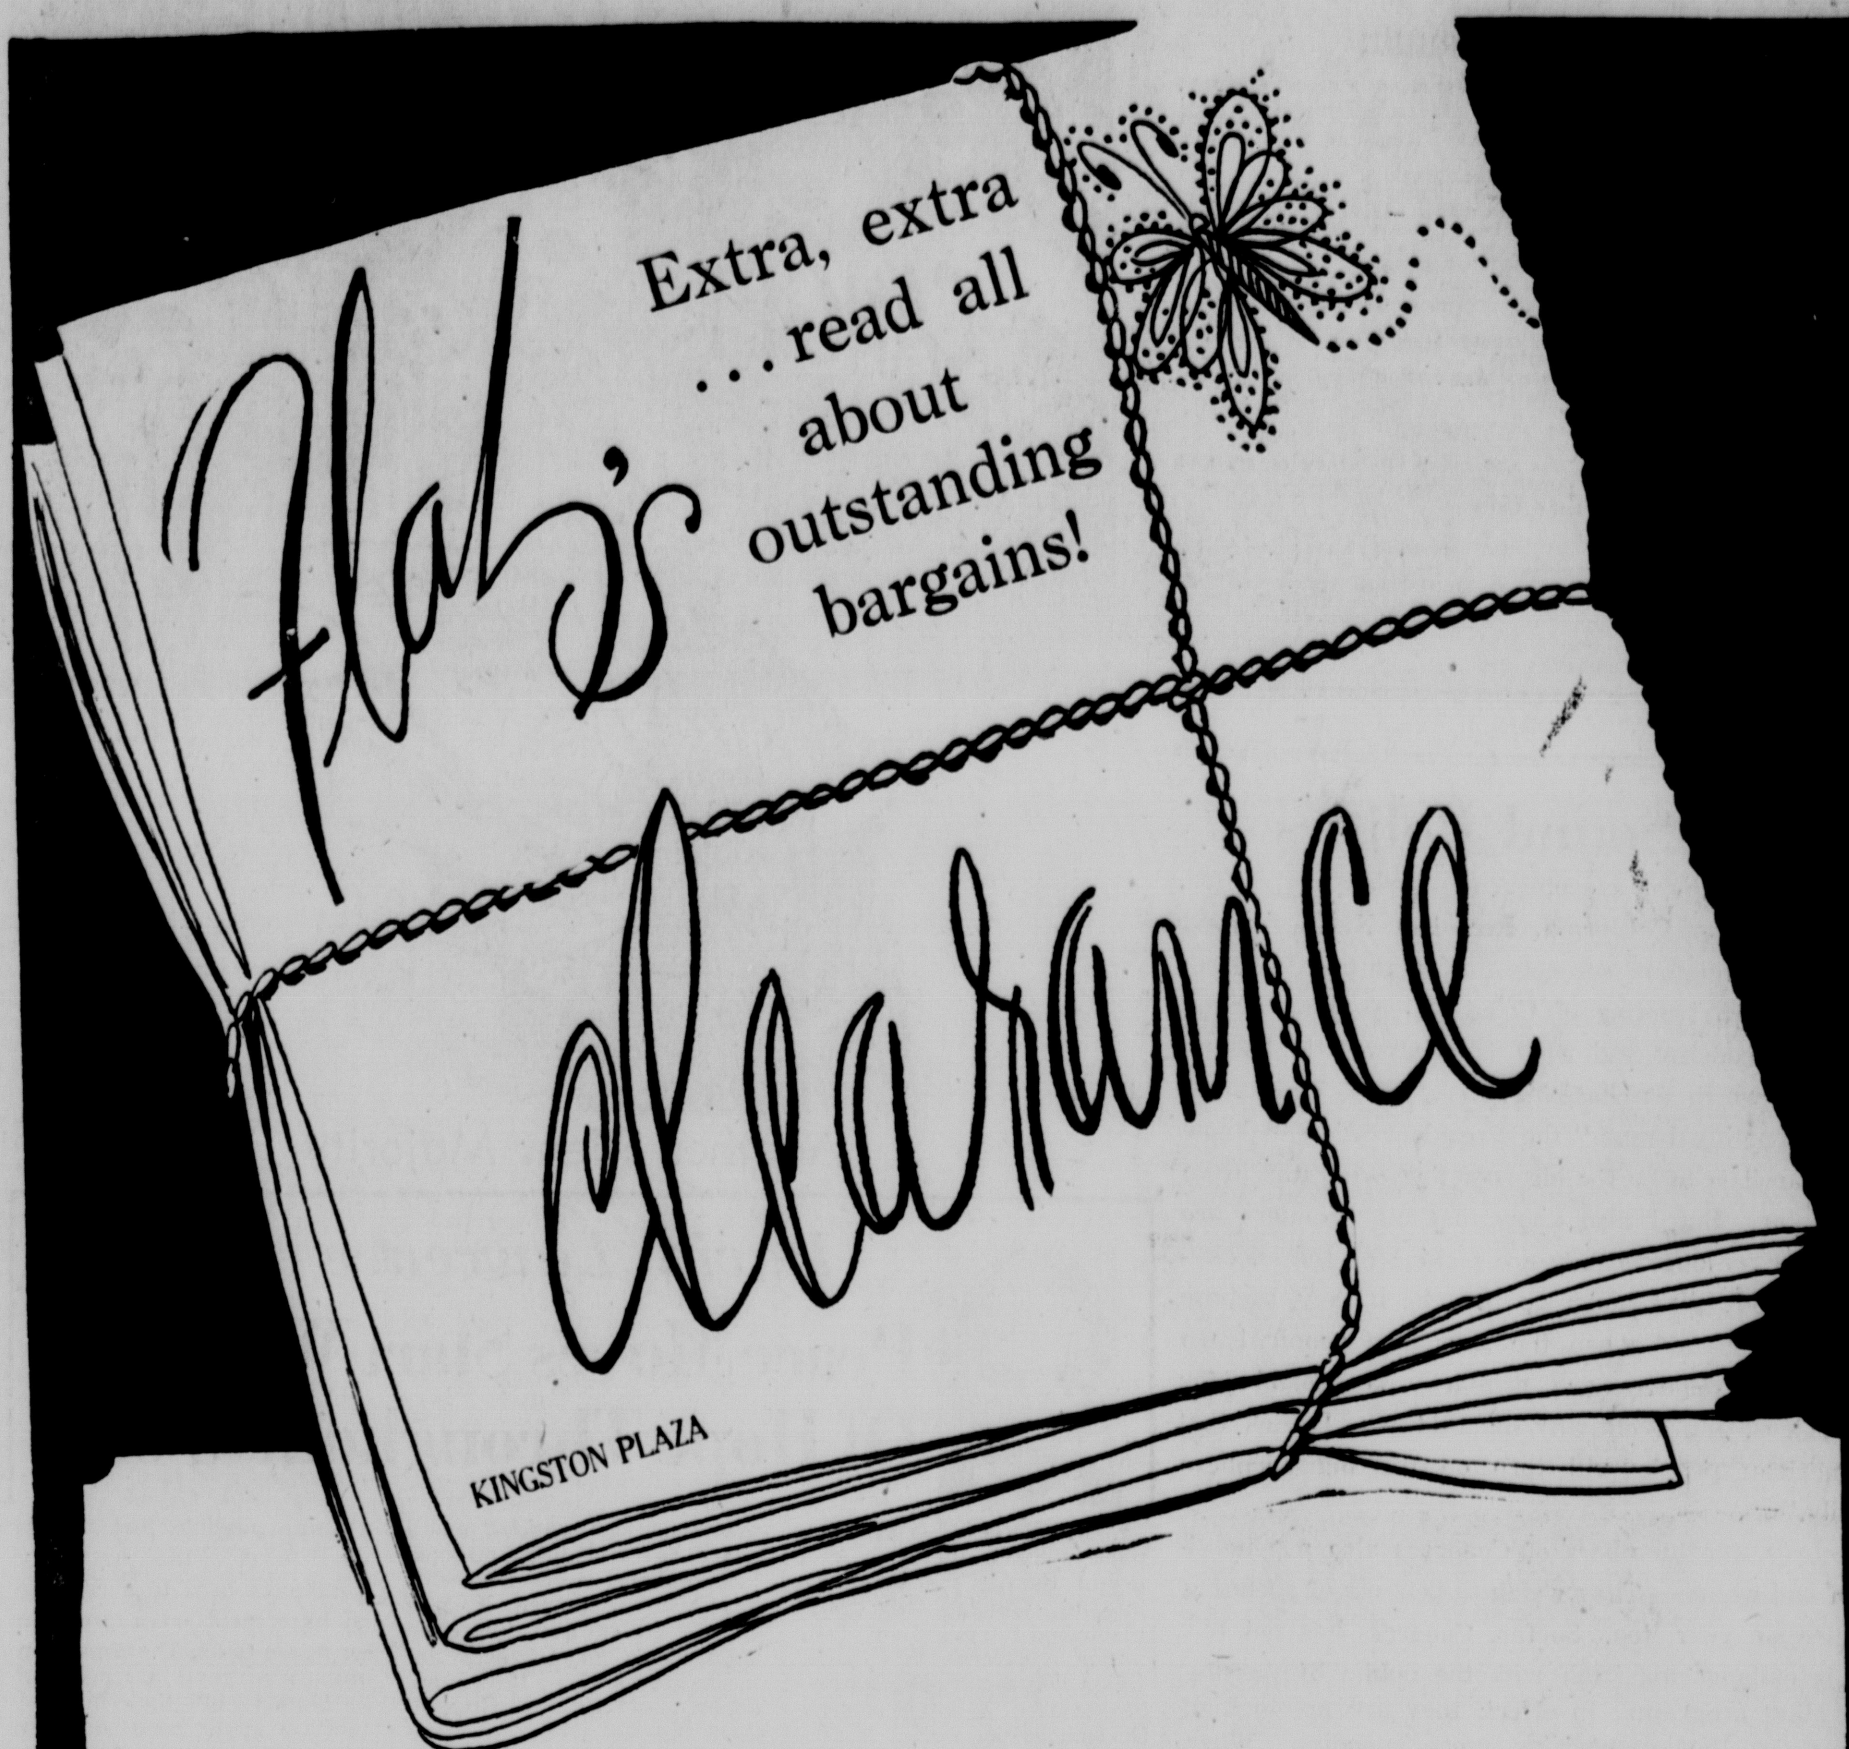

They heard business, economic, social and political forecasts of life in the 70's from Bill Moyers, former white House press aide, from former Secretary of the Interior Stuart

Udall, from Dr. Martin Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, and from Dr. Maxwell Maltz, author of "Psycho-Cybernetics."

Qualification for attendance at the annual Mass Mutual Leaders Club Conference was based on outstanding production results during the previous year. Both Meyer and Klein each placed about three million dollars of individual and group life insurance in force during 1969.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 25, 1970

Good Sound Politics

At his surprise press conference in his oval office, before leaving for California, President Nixon roamed over a wide number of subjects that have been well reported. His arm-twisting of Congress, speaking of the rise in the economy and what is necessary to keep it climbing, is worth emphasizing:

"I am a political man," the President said. "I know how popular it is to be for big spending programs in an election year. But I also know that big spenders are only popular as long as they are picking up the check—when somebody else picks up the check they become very unpopular—and when the American people learn that the big spenders are primarily responsible for higher prices, and eventually higher taxes, I think that the American people will turn on the big spenders politically."

Of course, the members of Congress also are political men and women. They weigh the effects of spending in an election year, too. So far, Congress has not felt that it is endangering itself with the public by passing big spending programs. In effect, they are not picking up the check, but authorizing more spending. When the public begins to pick up the check in higher prices and taxes, the Congress will not be so popular.

The argument is over fiscal 1972, which may be a crucial year politically. President Nixon did not achieve a balanced budget in 1970. He will not do so in fiscal 1971, now under way, largely because of big spending authorized by Congress. He wants to balance the budget in 1972, and believes it can be done, as he believed it could in 1970 and 1971.

We can have a balanced budget in 1972, Mr. Nixon said, if Congress shows restraint in spending during this session, because what happens now "will have a great delayed impact on the 1972 spending programs;" and if the economy moves upward during the last half of this year and continues to move upward during fiscal 1972, he added. That is a prescription all political men should accept and work for in 1972 because it is good sound politics.

Benedictine Heliport

The Benedictine Hospital is planning to join other hospitals throughout the country in providing a heliport which will permit accident victims and medical or surgical personnel to reach the hospital quickly. No other type vehicle can match the helicopter in its record of rescues. The saving in life by "flying ambulances" can be incalculable.

The heliport plan has the approval of the New York State Department of Transportation, the State Department of Health and the State Police, which has indicated its three medical helicopters could use the pad when the need arises.

Recognizing its importance, 15 army helicopters in the San Antonio, Texas, area will conduct an experiment for the rest of this year in airlifting victims of highway accidents off the road to the nearest hospital. They will apply casualty-evacuation techniques, proved in Vietnam, to save lives of those injured in automobile accidents.

The joint experiment by the Defense and Transportation Departments, it is hoped, will reduce fatalities and incapacitating injuries, just as the same techniques have done on the battlefield. Swift movement of wounded men by helicopter from battle areas is one reason for the low rate of deaths of wounded soldiers—2.3 per 1,000 in Vietnam compared with 4.5 per 1,000 in World War II. An equally dramatic reduction, it is hoped, will result in highway accident deaths from injuries.

One of the 15 helicopters from an ambulance company stationed at Ft. Sam Houston will be on standby duty 24 hours a day. It will be available to go to the scene of an accident on five minutes notice. Information would be radioed ahead to the hospital and doctors, who thus would be prepared to treat the victim on arrival.

Considering that the death rate from automobile accidents now runs to 1,200 a week, this demonstration holds great hope for reducing the most terrible death toll in the country.

Since the first of the year, 15,692 deputies have resigned or been ousted from Czechoslovakian municipal and district councils in a widespread purge of "right-wing opportunists" as the new Soviet-installed government calls them. For a small country, that just about sweeps all opposition under the rug.

A delegation of Americans led by Eldridge Cleaver, the missing minister of information of the Black Panther Party, flew into Pyongyang, North Korea, for a visit recently. At least, that locates Cleaver, who escaped the country by jumping bail. He has been appearing in Communist or Communist-inclined countries in Africa and Asia since his disappearance.

Another Silent Majority

David Lawrence Says Peace Moves Start Wave Of Hope Throughout World

WASHINGTON — Although parleys have their ups and downs, the fact that both sides in the Middle East have responded to suggestions from major powers—the Soviet Union and the United States—has started a wave of hope throughout the world. It may be that the Suez Canal will be opened again and that the Arabs and Israelis will find some way to avert further fighting.

First of all, a Communist party newspaper in Moscow, where President Nasser of Egypt has been visiting for three weeks, announces that Egypt is willing to acknowledge the existence of Israel as an independent state. The article commends Egypt for supporting the efforts of the Soviet Union to find the most efficient formula to make a political settlement of the Middle East crisis.

Coincidentally, meetings are being held in Washington between Secretary of State Rogers and the Ambassador of the Soviet Union as well as the Israeli Ambassador. A response has been made to the appeal of Secretary Rogers on June 19 to Egypt, Jordan and Israel to stop the warfare and start peace talks. Although President Nasser of Egypt was in Moscow for medical treatment, he had the opportunity to talk over the Middle East situation comprehensively with the Soviets, and his position now is apparently more flexible than before. Informed sources in Washington regard the Egyptian response as giving hope for a negotiated Mideast settlement. What's really happening is that the machinery for working out a peace agreement, as outlined last January by the Russians, has been supported by the United States and improved upon since in frequent interchanges with the state department. But the Government of Israel has some ideas, too, and the important fact is that progress is being made.

One trump card held by the Soviet Union and the United States is that the Arabs and Israelis are both dependent upon the Major powers for military assistance. Hence, as the time comes for a truce to be worked out, the influence of Moscow and Washington is paramount.

The objective, of course, is to get a cease-fire in the fighting and to persuade the Arabs and Israelis to pledge themselves to accept the principles of the United Nations resolution which calls for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory. The United States and Russia, and possibly Britain and France, would be expected to approve a detailed peace plan and procedure, and a mediator from the U.S. would negotiate with the two sides on the basis of the outline. Apparently Israel's attitude is not yet as cooperative as hoped for. Egypt, however, has indicated its willingness to give full recognition to Israel as an independent state—something that may be a pivotal factor in the negotiations.

Meanwhile, Israel continues to bomb Egypt, and there are reports of added arms shipments from the Soviet Union to Libya, all of which causes considerable concern. But it is quite possible that this is part of the strategy sometimes used to accelerate an agreement on a program for peace talks. The American proposals for a peaceful settlement of the Mideast conflict have been publicly given support now by President Nasser. If the Israeli Government does the same, the probabilities are that the United Nations will play a big role in the conferences that will lead to a truce.

Incidentally, President Nixon's hesitation to send additional planes to Israel recently was part of a policy that could not be explained at the time because diplomatic conversations were going on with Moscow in an attempt to persuade the Egyptians to agree to the main points of the American plan.

If it turns out that diplomatic efforts of the Soviet and the United States governments working together have solved the troubles between the Arab countries and Israel, the world will then expect something of a similar attempt to be tried in connection with the War in Vietnam. Unquestionably the Soviets have powerful influence with the Hanoi government.

All in all, peace moves are more in the news than they have been. If fighting in the Middle East is terminated by a truce, the Soviet Union would be challenged to use its influence with Hanoi to find a way to negotiate an early cease-fire between North and South Vietnam.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The poor country boy doesn't always make good, but when he does, he goes all the way. Back in 1919, there was an interdenominational preacher named A. E. Humbird whose wife had a son named Rex. The Reverend had a church in Hot Springs, Arkansas where folks prefer simple iron-clad truths to complex rationale of the city slicker.

They believed in the Rev. A. E. Humbird, but they didn't believe in him hard enough to help him raise a big family. The boy, Rex, grew up with nothing but a good-looking face—like a young Gene Autry—and a hill country affliction for saying "them" when he meant "those." Behind the sweet face and good manners was a spirit of ambition and drive unmatched anywhere in the Ozarks.

At 13, Rex was in the 7th grade at Hot Springs Junior High School and decided to drop out and become a preacher. He had no more formal education than his father, but he had a tremendous faith in Jesus Christ and a desire to bring the Good News of the Old and New Testament to millions.

He read and reread the Bible many times. When his eyes tired, he picked up a guitar and twanged at it until his ears could bear the noise. Then he took his brother and sister to radio station KTHS in Hot Springs and told the man that, if he would let them, he could have some gospel songs on Sunday morning with a plug for the listeners to attend services at daddy's church.

It worked out well. And yet, his father was afraid of it. "These are serious people, son," he said. "Don't smile; don't laugh; don't make jokes." The boy disagreed. Religion, he thought, any kind of religion, should be joyful communion with God; no one wanted to sit on the mourners' bench forever.

Rex, the boy wonder, continued to work with his father, but he was outstripping the old man. He favored big risks for big gains. The first time in Akron, Ohio, Rex erected a huge tent at the airport and, in a crusade lasting 3½ weeks, preached and sang to 175,000 people. They weren't foot stompers or "Amen!" shouters, but many of them came forward to make their commitments to Christ.

He moved his heavenly circus to Cleveland, then back to Akron. By 1952, Dad Humbird said that he had had enough. "I'm going back home to church," he said. The father ordained the son, even though neither one had attended a seminary or had formal training. They were interdenominational because they couldn't identify with any formal church.

Rex was now married to Maude Aimee, a gospel singer. His brother Clement was a preacher in Calvary Temple Church, Youngstown, Ohio. A sister, Leona, married Wayne Jones, a sky and plane pilot. Rex brought the whole family, including handsome son Rex Junior, who was placed in charge of television (if any); Don, in charge of technical direction of television preaching and gospel hymns; Elizabeth, 11, in charge of remaining on key while singing; and Charlie, the baby, in charge of tears.

The Rev. Rex Humbird could find no stricture in the Bible which forbade him from spreading the word on radio or T.V. So, making Akron his home base, he bought a home at 59 West Portage Trail, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, went deeply into debt building the Cathedral of Tomorrow, which seats 5,400, and fashioned a lighted 100-foot cross in the ceiling which changes color.

Then he leased cameras and began to tape his Sunday morning services—first the choral group with their guitars, pianos, accordions and fiddles, and then the 30-minute sermon preaching the word of God. The Reverend preached simply and directly, because that's the only way he knew.

Today, his hour-long service is syndicated to 225 television stations from coast to coast and deep into Canada. It is by far the biggest one-man crusade for Christ in the world. The audience numbers about 150,000.

The preacher incorporated himself and pays each station for using the program. Donations come in each week in dollar bills and five dollar bills. It totals $5,000,000 a year. This matches the cost of the program and the Cathedral of Tomorrow to the penny.

His brother-in-law flies him and the choral group to over 100 cities every year—always to one where the T.V. program can be seen, and the Rev. Rex Humbird begs the local people for help. They give it. They like him and they like the way he counsels them on family problems as well as how to eradicate the dark stains on the soul.

The uneducated country preacher does not warn of fire and brimstone. He brings Christ to millions with a happy smile...

Jack Anderson Says President Nixon Still Makes His Decisions in Isolation

WASHINGTON — Despite President Nixon's pains to establish closer touch with the world outside the White House, he continues to make his decisions in splendid isolation.

He has tried to break out of his isolation, and his press aides have played up his new accessibility. Yet the fortress he has built around himself, say insiders, is more formidable than ever.

To counter the charges that he consults only a few close advisors, the President has held a few more meetings, admitted a few more visitors and shaken a few more hands. He has tried to untangle his lines of communication, and he has admonished his aides to hearken to the voices of opposition.

Specifically, he has instructed Vice President Spiro Agnew and Attorney General John Mitchell to stop goading student activists and to encourage young dissenters to speak out. The President is now persuaded, say intimates, that open dialogue is the best steam valve to prevent more explosions on the campus this fall.

But at decision time, he still holes up in a hideaway and pores over his "option papers." He relies, as ever, upon paperwork rather than the give-and-take of discussion. Only a few intimates, men he feels comfortable with, are able to get through to him with policy advice.

This column has talked to key Republicans, men who want Richard Nixon to succeed, about their access to him. For the sake of their own relationships, they have asked not to be identified. But here are their disturbing statements:

BM and AM

One White House aide said access to Nixon has been so narrowed that only those on his team before the 1968 convention can get in to see him for anything more than a pro forma meeting. Presidential advisors are categorized increasingly as BMs (Before Miami) and AMs (After Miami).

Every other week, Republican congressional leaders are brought in for breakfast with the President. He takes the occasion more to brief them, however, than to consult them. One leader said the President treats them courteously and gives them an insight into his thinking. But he pays little attention to their advice, waits until it is too late to prepare for legislative battles and doesn't give his legislative aides enough authority to act in his name.

Liberal GOP Senators have all but given up their attempts to establish communication with the White House. They invited key aides to the Senate twice for closed-door discussions, once in the office of Sen. Clifford Case, (R) N. J., the next time in the office of Sen. Richard Schweiker (R) Pa. Yet nothing came of the meetings and no reciprocal invitation was extended to the liberals to attend a White House strategy session. Nixon has resumed his practice of inviting small congressional groups for evening cruises down the Potomac in the presidential yacht Sequoia. But he almost never joins the cruise himself.

Conservative Republicans in the Senate are equally disgruntled over their inability to get through to the President. Such staunch conservative leaders as Senators Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., have complained privately that they can't get anyone at the White House to listen to them.

Local GOP leaders across the country also have warned, says an aide that the White House has lost touch with the people. Past Presidents used to keep in close contact with local leaders to find out what people are saying and thinking. Nixon's grass roots soundings, they say, are sporadic and unorganized.

One top Republican leader, disturbed over the President's isolation, summed up the problem in these words: "Can any man govern without refreshing his ideas? Nixon will end up like the fellow who milks into two pails at the same time and never hits either of them."

Propositions Wrong Girl

A pretty girl in her early 20s was asked by the attendant at a Washington gas station whether she would like to try something different. When she found he was talking about heroin, she sweetly declined.

Not long afterward, narcotics agents called at the gas station. The pretty girl happened to be an aide to Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House Crime Committee.

Senate Tales

Senator Stuart Symington, D-Mo., recently gave his name to a flight reservation clerk in Kansas City. Responded the clerk: "Just a moment, sir, before I make your reservation, I have $1,500 in taxes, and I'd like to know how I'm gonna pay it!"

A woman spotted Senator Daniel Inouye, (D) Hawaii, recently at the San Francisco airport. She rushed up to him and told him gushingly how proud she was of the work he was doing. The Senator accepted the praise with grateful embarrassment. Finally, the woman turned to leave. "It's been so nice talking to you, Doctor Hayakawa," she said.

Senator Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., has been getting Playboy and the American Rifleman magazines, unsolicited, in the mail. Despite his repeated stop orders, the publications not only continued to come but so did the bills for the subscriptions. The annoyed Senator finally introduced an amendment to the Postal Reform Act making all unsolicited merchandise shipped through the mails a gift to the recipient.

United States Helps Change Asian Countries Policy Image

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some time back this reporter walked in on a police school in northern Thailand. At the end of a ramshackle barracks a group of embarrassed young police was being lectured in minute detail on the process of birth, complete with diagrams. They were being taught how they could, in an emergency, help deliver a baby.

The men were young and fumbling. But they were trying.

This was part of a series of courses and intense indoctrination aimed at teaching new Thai village police that they were to be servants of the people. They were to be kind and helpful. They were to make friends.

This was a major innovation in Thailand, where police had traditionally been hard—and frequently arrogant. It may take a decade to permeate the entire force with this service-to-the-people concept.

For in Thailand, as in many countries around the world, police officers have in the past too often tended to look down upon the people. It was in part local hatred for the police that enabled Communist agents to expand their territories in northeast Thailand a half dozen or so years back. The improvement since that time has, in part, been due to an improvement in the "humanity" of the village policemen in some rural regions.

The important thing to note here is that the new service concept has been, in some considerable measure, the result of aid and training given by American police advisors and instruction at the U. S. operated international police academy in Washington, D. C. (Also of key importance: The willingness of the Thai government to try this experiment.)

The United States now has several hundred police specialists in 28 countries in Asia, Latin America and Africa.

The formal training here and the advice given abroad cover a multitude of subjects from narcotics to police organization and from traffic techniques to riot control. But the real achievement of the American aid program in the police field is the philosophy exemplified by the Thai police school mentioned above.

A friend in Tokyo (not a policeman) says that in his opinion the greatest contrast between prewar and postwar Japan is the changed attitude of the lawmen. From personal experience this reporter can attest to that change. Today's Japanese patrolmen are not perfect. But they are a far cry from the martinet of the 1930s.

That shift can be credited both to Japanese efforts and to the training given by American police officials assigned to Japan during the occupation.

No one should fool themselves. A shift in police attitudes in any country is going to take time. It depends on the objectives of the government as well as on technical training. And governments cannot change overnight.

But every American advisor stationed abroad is there at the invitation of the host government. And every police officer and police official sent here for study is sent officially by his government.

As a result, they do listen.

So there is, in one place and another, a slow development of a new concept of humaneness in police work.

This humaneness can be sold effectively for one basic reason. As any first-rate lawman knows, a policeman can only be effective if he has the co-operation of the citizenry.

In those areas of the world where the populace has begun to hate the police, effective law and order is difficult indeed. This reporter has been in such areas. There the police live in little islands. They can, by the power of their guns move where they want. But they have little power to enforce the law. The knowledge that this is so helps make the American "service" argument effective even in some countries where police brutality has been a tradition.

When senators and reporters talk of American failures abroad they should note, too, that we have had some astounding successes.

The three take their work seriously, in fact that was the guiding principle in selecting the other 64 members of the Council. "We wanted recruits," McKay says. "We need people who are willing to do a job. We need well-trained people."

Tha job is not yet in clear focus. "It's up to the local right. We're not here to solve narcotics guidance councils to pursue an approach to solving the problem," according to McKay.

Even the problem is difficult to define. "There are according to statistics, between 15 million and 20 million persons in the country who have either tried or are using marijuana. About 160,000 are on heroin," McKay says.

Locally, McKay estimates that about 50 per cent of the students at Kingston High School may have tried or are using marijuana. That percentage compares favorably with the national average, if that is any comfort to area parents.

McKay is most concerned at this point, about misinformation concerning the duties of the narcotics council.

"We're not a treatment center," he said. "Although we can refer a person to a specific agency for treatment of a specific problem."

The council could be an identification center, McKay outlined it this way. "If a parent finds something belonging to one of his children that appears suspicious he can check it out with us. We'll take the substance and give him an answer within 24 hours." The council keeps the substance.

One of the questions raised by Koenig's test instead of arrest suggestion was that possession of a narcotic is a crime, regardless of who possesses it. "Technically speaking, that's true," McKay said. "But the district attorney has assured us his cooperation in this program."

What about the person turning in the questionable substance? "The only people who know the name of the person are the persons taking the call and myself. Thereafter the case becomes a number. We will not divulge the source. It will be held in the strictest confidence. In addition, there's no state law that requires the identification of the source of narcotics."

Confidence was one of the reasons why Kingston Hospital was chosen as the center for the council. "We could have a storefront in Kingston but then people could not come to us in private. As soon as someone saw them come in the word would be all over town in 24 hours," McKay said.

Of course, McKay envisions more than just identifying drugs as the mission of the council. "We plan adult education classes. Parents will be able to come in and find out about drugs, be able to identify them, know the symptoms when someone is under their influence."

A visit is planned to the narcotics guidance council in Monticello. "Down there," Notari says, "They set up a program where they train carefully selected high school students who then go back into the school system, and give seminars for fourth and fifth graders."

There's the attitude of the kids toward the problem. "Some kids don't consider marijuana (pot) all that bad," Wittenbecker says. "I've heard them ask, 'If my father can get high on alcohol, why can't I get high on pot?'"

Hollywood, Theater Owners Appealing to Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidently fearing a new wave of control, the movie industry and the nation's theater owners are appealing to the Supreme Court to guarantee them the same freedom from censorship enjoyed by book and magazine publishers.

They want to block the states from banning films cleared for national distribution and they want movies, books and magazines all judged by the court's current, liberal obscenity standards.

The Motion Picture Association of America and the National Association of Theater Owners registered their views late Monday in friend of court briefs for the forthcoming battle over the popular Swedish import, I Am Curious (Yellow).

One of the big issues facing the justices next term is whether the film is legally obscene and whether states can require distributors to submit movies for approval before public showing.

"Curious" survived seizure by federal customs officials in 1967 and was ordered released for distribution by the federal appeals court in New York City a year later. As a result, it has been seen by millions of Americans.

At the same time, additional millions have been unable to view it because of court rulings in individual cities and states. In Maryland, the ban was imposed initially by a state board of censors, the only surviving formal state board to which all films must be submitted in advance.

Out of the Supreme Court's review could come a constitutional right of adults to see any movie in a public theater no matter how raw.

However, with the court's composition growing more conservative, a new definition of obscenity, one more restrictive than the current test, is more likely. Currently, the court permits publication of any book or magazine that is not completely without social value and does not offend contemporary standards.

Up to now, in key decisions in 1952, 1961 and 1965, the court authorized separate and more restrictive treatment of movies.

"Films differ from other forms of expression," the court said in 1965.

The Motion Picture Association contends the distinction is no longer sensible or justified. Association attorney Louis Nizer told the court movies enjoy a status equivalent to literature and may have become "the art form of our times."

"To say that the scope of their constitutional protection must continue to be governed by public and judicial attitudes which might have been prevalent 20 or 30 years ago is to preclude any constitutional development," he argued.

College in New Paltz. He suffered a broken right leg and lacerations of the forehead. A passenger, 17-year-old David Heroy of New Paltz, received facial lacerations.

McCormack was cited for driving at a speed too fast for conditions. The vehicle was eastbound down the road when the driver failed to negotiate a left curve. The car veered off the right side of the highway and hit a rock wall before overturning. Heroy was ejected.

A Port Ewen man was injured early Sunday when his car went out of control and struck a concrete wall after hitting a parked vehicle in front of 377 Washington Avenue, according to city police.

Richard Harbig, of Box 116, Port Ewen was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated for lacerations of the lips. He told police he was southbound when his accelerator pedal stuck and the vehicle lunged ahead and hit a car owned by Joseph A. Sottile of the Washington Avenue address and then ran into the wall.

In another city accident that occurred shortly after 4 a.m. Sunday, James H. Edmondson Jr., of Quitman, Ga., narrowly escaped serious injury when the brakes on the tractor-trailer he was driving apparently failed as the vehicle was traveling on Wurts Street.

The tractor-trailer's gears slipped and the truck jackknifed and hit and cracked off a utility pole.

Scheduled Wednesday in City

Children's Day Parade...11 Divisions, 12 Bands

KINGSTON City Recreation Department officials speculate that this year's fourth annual Children's Day Parade scheduled for Wednesday, July 29 at 7 p. m. will be the largest parade ever seen in the City of Kingston.

The parade, with former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan as Grand Marshall, will have 11 divisions and a total of 12 bands. The total number of various units in the line-of-march is now over 100.

The theme of this year's parade is "Mardi Gras Comes to Kingston." The boys and girls from the various playgrounds will dress up in the regalia of an old-time Mardi Gras celebration and will parade up Broadway.

The parade will be assembled in the parking lots at Kingston High School and Myron J. Michael Junior High starting at 6 p. m. Step-off time for the big parade is set at 7 p. m. The parade will step-off onto Broadway from the Kingston High School exit road. It will proceed all the way up Broadway to the governor Clinton Hotel and turn right on to Clinton Avenue. The line-of-march will then proceed to the end of Clinton Avenue and a left turn will be made onto North Front Street. From that point the parade will proceed directly into Dietz Stadium where it will disband.

Fire trucks and other units not wishing to enter Dietz Stadium may turn left at Joy's Lane and exit. The judges area will be located in front of the Governor Clinton Hotel. There will be five large trophies awarded to various outstanding groups in the parade.

The trophies will be awarded in the following categories: Best Senior Band; Best Junior Band; Best Mobile Vehicle; Best Appearing Unit; and Best Appearing Playground Unit.

Following the parade there will be a free show for all youngsters and adults in Dietz Stadium. Included in the large free show will be: trophy presentations: Hudson Valley Skydivers; Sing-out Kingston; Sing-out Saugerties; The Kingston Senior Indians; The Kingston Junior Indians Drum and Bugle Corps; The all American Screaming Eagles Band; Tex Larabee; and Warren Vinning's Rock Band.

It should be a great night for the youngsters and oldsters in the City of Kingston.

Following is the line of march: Division I: Police Car; American Legion Color Guard; Grand Marshall; Mayor Koenig; Alderman; Local 215 A.F. of M. Band; Volunteer Firemen's Association; Volunteer Firetrucks; Kingston Community Action; Ulster County REACT.

Division II: All-American Screaming Eagles; Commissioners of Recreation Department; Kingston Braves; Sing-out Kingston; Troop No. 3, Kingston Boy Scouts; Ellenville Recreation Department; U. S. Army Vehicle; Antique Cars—Elmendorf.

Division III: VFW Color Guard; Kingston Senior Indians; VFW Women's Auxiliary; VFW Junior Unit; VFW Poppy Girl; Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.; Philmont Boys; WKNY—Tex. Larabee; WKNY Mobile Unit; Great Dane—C. Darling; Saugerties Recreation Department; Kingston Aerial Truck and Dalmation.

Division IV: Kingston Junior Indians; YWCA; Kingston Girl Scouts; Army Reserve Vehicles; Hutton Park; Union Hose Firetruck; Doctors Ambulance.

Division V: New Hampton Training School Band; Assemblymen Bell and Rolison; WBAZ; Great Dane—Perry; Troop No. 33, Saugerties Boy Scouts; Troop No. 38, Saugerties Boy Scouts; *Pack No. 36.

Ulster County Work Release Program Huge Success

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON—Ulster County's work release program for prisoners, one year old this month, has proven itself to be as successful as Sheriff William B. Martin envisioned it. Sixty-one persons participated in the program which allows prisoners to work in the community during the day and return to confinement at night.

Most experiences have been very gratifying, Sheriff Martin said, telling of one man who earned and was able to take $1,000 with him upon his release from jail. Another had enough money to buy himself a pickup truck and go into business for himself after serving out his term. Another, while still a prisoner, has been made the head of a woodworking shop for a local manufacturer.

"I don't think these fellows will be back in jail," Sheriff Martin said confidently.

Out of the 61 prisoners in the program only two have been declared failures. One, who failed to return to jail at night was brought before the court and give an additional one year sentence for violating the provisions of the agreement. Three others were termed violators rather than failures.

One of the biggest problems, according to the sheriff is the matter of transportation of prisoners to their jobs. Martin explained that many prisoners could be employed on area farms during the good weather months if there was a way to transport them there. Sheriff

Martin suggests that he would prospective employers are not employees of a factory, packing department car and deputy insurance needed in such a Earnings from the work release program during the first year amounted to $26,917.20. Of latter is $2,888.04.

The activities the prisoners year engaged in include that sum, $3,447.50 was paid the county for the prisoner's room and board with another $5,975. The program, which was implemented last year following strong consideration to ex-individuals convicted of crimes Yohe, jail chaplain; Roy Jen-son A. State Sets Date For Paltz Bids

ALBANY—The State University Construction Fund will accept bids on a contract estimated at $48,000 for the improvement of safety features in various buildings at the State University College at New Paltz, Governor Rockefeller announced today.

This project scheduled for completion by December 14, 1970, calls for rehabilitation work to be done in Capen Hall, Bouton Hall and the Practice School. The architect is David Todd and Associates of New York.

Sealed bids will be received at the Albany offices of the State University Construction Fund until 2 p.m., Aug. 19, 1970, at which time they will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The capital construction program being carried out at the State University College at New Paltz is part of the State University's multibillion dollar physical development program directed by the State University Construction Fund, headed by Dr. Anthony G. Adipolli, general manager. This public benefit corporation was established in 1962 by the legislature upon the recommendation of Governor Rockefeller to expediate the construction of facilities to meet the State University's Master Plan requirements.

Nuclear Plants To Be Subject In Woodstock

WOODSTOCK—Nuclear power plants, their threat and their promise will be the topic of a speaker at Woodstock Town Hall Tuesday 8 p.m.

L.I.F.E. — Living In a Full-filled Environment—is sponsoring Larry Bogart, conservation consultant and lecturer, who will discuss the question of whether the safeguards developed to control radioactivity at nuclear power plants are adequate.

The threat of nuclear industrial accidents—not just their possibility, but their probability—has for some time plagued Hudson Valley dwellers as well as others throughout the country who live near nuclear power plants.

Industrial accidents occur from time to time in industries much less complicated than nuclear plants. What is there to prevent nuclear accidents from happening? Petroleum accidents, as an example, are dangerous, but they are like fire-crackers, compared to atomic accidents. And how about "normal leakage of radioactivity"? There are the questions the speaker will answer.

Bogart is the author of four books on chemistry and related topics. He has followed a career in industry which has led him to concentrate on public affairs and the problems of maintaining a quality environment.

Through the International Co-operation Institute, Bogart has followed worldwide pollution problems and has lectured on constructive solutions to the growing contamination of air, soils, food, and water. Recently, he has helped organize regional Anti-Pollution Leagues in the Northeast.

Wedding Bells Ring Out for Beautiful Brides

MRS. RICHARD J. MICHAELS

Noble-Michaels

St. Mary's Church, Kingston, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Ann Justin Noble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel V. Noble of 133 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston, and Richard James Michaels, Malden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace J. Michaels of Box 105, Malden, Sunday, July 19.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly officiated at the double ring ceremony. Baskets of pink and white gladioli and carnations decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk Georgette chiffon and Alencon lace over bouquet taffeta. The gown was styled with a lace bodice, Bishop sleeves accented with pearls, and featured a full chignon skirt with long cathedral train. She carried a cascade of white roses.

Pamela Noble of Foxhall Avenue, Kingston, was maid of honor for her sister in a pink chiffon gown trimmed with white lace and styled with a wedding ring neckline. The gown was fashioned with full Bishop sleeves a soft skirt. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink, white and yellow gladioli and carnations.

Agnes Sciutto of Malden, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Patricia Duffy of 75 Garden Street, Kingston, served as an attendant. Their gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant's.

Ken Lavalley of Saugerties was best man. Ushers were Bruce Owens, Mt. Marion; Wallace Michaels Jr., brother of the bridegroom, Saugerties.

A reception for 75 guests was held at Kirkland Hotel, Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1965, and Ulster County Community College, is employed at Metropolitan Hall of Records, City Mortgages. Her husband, a 1964 graduate of Saugerties High School, served four years in the U.S. Marine Corps where he earned the rank of sergeant, and is employed at Ferro-cube Corporation of America. He plans to attend UCCC in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Michaels will reside in Malden when they return from their wedding trip to Canada.

Volante-Dwyer

St. Mary's Church in Kingston was the setting for the marriage of Mrs. June Koeppen Volante of Kingston to William J. Dwyer Jr. of Kingston on Saturday, July 18. The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly officiated at the ceremony. Miss Nan Goldrick, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Koeppen of 41 Brewster Street. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dwyer of 83 Highland Avenue.

Gold altar vases with white gladioli, white and yellow chrysanthemums and majestic daisies decorated the altar. Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a floor-length gown of celo, fashioned with an empire wastline and a floating back panel. She wore a stylized headpiece to match and carried a stylized cascade of white daisies and baby's breath with white streamers.

Mrs. Virginia M. Cleveland of 80 Valentine Avenue, Kingston, served as matron of honor in a bon bon pink gown styled identically to that of the bride's. She carried a cascade of yellow daisies.

John H. Dwyer of 83 Highland Avenue was best man for his brother. Ushers were Richard F. Dwyer, brother of the bridegroom, New York City; and James L. Cleveland, Kingston.

A luncheon reception was held at LeHerb's Restaurant for the immediate family.

The bride is employed at Kingston Luggage. Her husband is an attorney and member of the firm of Cook, Tucker and Dwyer.

MRS. WILLIAM J. DWYER JR.

Miss Joan Levy Marries Stephen Moro

Miss Joan M. Levy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Levy of 128 Fair Street, Kingston, became the bride of Stephen Alan Moro, 301 Grant Street, Framingham, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Moro of 88 Longview Avenue in White Plains, Sunday, July 26 at Temple Emanuel, Albany Avenue, Kingston.

Rabbi Joseph Schwarz of Temple Beth El, Benton Harbor, Mich., uncle of the bride, and Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn of Temple Emanuel officiated at the double ring ceremony. John Park, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. The altar and canopy were decorated with pink majestic daisies, gladioli, pompons and greens. Basket arrangements of matching flowers decorated the lecterns and the pews were marked with white bows and bouquets of majestic daisies.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a formal length gown of white silk organza, fashioned with a Victorian neckline, long Bishop sleeves, a fitted empire bodice and an A-line skirt which terminated in an attached chapel length train. The gown featured floral schiffie embroidery on the skirt and was accented with Venice lace bands. A plaque of Venice lace appliques held her four-tier, elbow, French silk illusion veil and she carried a cascade arrangement of white spider chrysanthemums, stephanotis and greens.

Mrs. Connie Melia of Saugerties was matron of honor in a formal-length gown of pink crepe, fashioned with a high neckline, long Bishop sleeves, and a shirred A-line skirt. The gown was trimmed with matching crepe braiding at the empire waistline. Matching bows with streamers trimmed with fresh flowers served as her headpiece and she carried a simplicity hand bouquet of light pink painted marguerite daisies and baby's breath with velvet ribbon.

Attendants were Miss Marilyn Hulnick; Miss Cynthia Moro, sister of the bridegroom, both of White Plains; Miss Linda Kaplan, Kingston. Their pink gowns and headpieces were styled similarly to that of the honor attendant's and they carried fireside baskets of light pink painted marguerite daisies, baby's breath and velvet bows.

Miss Heide Kulp and Miss Bonnie Kulp, cousins of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Their pale pink crepe gowns and headpieces were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant's and they carried fireside baskets of dark pink painted marguerite daisies, baby's breath, and velvet bows.

Donald Moro of White Plains was best man for his brother. Ushers were Lt. Raymond Nahl, New Hampshire; Stephen Moro, New York, and Seth Gold, Latham, both cousins of the bridegroom. Alan Moro, cousin of the bridegroom was ringbearer.

A reception of 160 guests was held at Temple Emanuel. For her wedding trip to Bermuda, the bride selected a red, white and blue ensemble of linen and silk. The skirt and bolero jacket were of white linen and the bodice was navy and white polka dots. She wore red and navy accessories and a red and white cybium corseage.

The bride, a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School, was graduated in June from Ulster County Community College where she was awarded her AAS degree in Nursing. She is employed as a staff nurse at Kingston Hospital.

Her husband, an alumnus of White Plains High School, class of 1963, received his BS degree from Case Institute of Technology in 1967. At Case he was elected to Pi Delta Epsilon journalism fraternity. Baganz-Borst Nuptials Announced

Miss Wanda Jean Baganz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baganz, Ruby, became the bride of Erich Borst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Konrad Borst, 46 Sweet Meadows, Kingston on Sunday July 12, in the Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church, Ruby. The Rev. Olney Cook officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Arthur Brink provided traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a fitted empire gown of nylon organza and peau d'ange lace. The gown featured a scalloped neckline and long lace sleeves. White satin ribbon encircled the waist. Her trailing mantilla was edged with a deep border of matching lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature white carnations.

The bride's sister, Miss Jeanette Baganz, was maid of honor. She wore a mint green, floor length, linen gown. The fitted empire bodice and ruffled hem line were accented with a white daisy applique trim and matching bows in back. She wore a large mint green picture hat and carried a cascade bouquet of green carnations trimmed with satin ribbon.

The bridesmaid, Miss Pamela Brueckner of Lake Katrine, wore a peach colored gown identical to that of the maid of honor's, a large peach picture hat, and carried cascade bouquet of peach colored carnations trimmed with satin ribbon.

Miss Elizabeth Baganz, niece of the bride, serves as flower girl. She was dressed in a pale lavender gown similar to that of the other attendants and wore a band of white daisies in her hair. She carried a basket of lavender carnations, and white daisies trimmed with lavender ribbon.

Konrad Borst Jr. serving with the U.S. Marines at Cherry Point, North Carolina was best man for his brother. Ushers were Walter Baganz Jr., Kingston, brother of the bride; and Louis Oppare of West Hurley.

A wedding dinner and reception for 85 guests was given at Elmer's Inn.

For her wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, Pa., the bride wore a baby blue crepe dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The bride, who was graduated from Kingston High School in 1969, is employed by Shoe-Town in Middletown. Her husband, a 1966 graduate of Kingston High School attended UCCC and is employed as assistant manager at Shoe-Town, Middletown.

Mr. and Mrs. Borst will make their home in New Hampton, N.Y.

MR. AND MRS. PETER E. BROUGHT of Route 32 North, New Paltz, celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary Monday, July 20. Married in 1915 at Methodist-Episcopal Church Parsonage in Allgerville by the Rev. M. H. Seiple, their attendants were Loran Smith and Mrs. W. H. Seiple. Mrs. Brought is the former Eva M. Donnelly. The couple has five children, 18 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren. Mr. Brought is a mason and carpenter. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Country Wife

By DORTHY VAN DOREN

Happiness, said a Fourth Grader recently, is learning to read. I thought of this the other day when two grandsons, aged eight, under the supervision of their grandfather, began to look up words in the dictionary. Each of them, with his book, bent over the desk, wholly absorbed in his task. "What shall we look up?" "What about 'lizard'."

said Grandpa, for no reason. Lizard it was then "lettuce." They thought the spelling of lettuce ridiculous. "Why not 'lettis'?" How come the "uc?" They looked up "boy," and to their amazement and that of their grandfather, also, found that it originally meant slave. A trace of this is still found in our own deep South. "Boy, what are you doing there?" or "Boy, bring in the suitcases." The word comes from an Anglo-Saxon term meaning collar, which slaves wore, and I remembered the Serf in Ivanhoe who wore his collar until he was freed and then joyously took it off. But if boy was a surprising word, girl was even more so.

Until the fourteenth century girl applied to a young child of either sex. How about that, boys and girls? A girl could be a boy, a boy was a slave. It is probably a good thing that we have straightened this out over the centuries.

So it is wonderful to read the dictionary, real happiness. Another Fourth Grader said: "Happiness is walking up to the barn all by yourself."

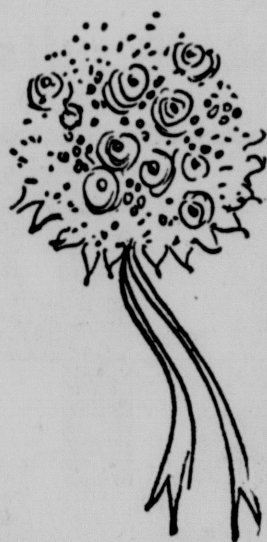

And so with unhappiness, or misery. "Misery," said one, "is wanting a drink and not being tall enough to reach the water fountain." "Misery is having your favorite cousin come to visit you and having him play with your older sister."

Life breaks in on us at a very early age. Being left out, feeling inadequate, being too shy to make friends when another girl is all out-going and self-confident. I remember with what envy I watched girls who knew how to talk to boys. I was tongue-tied in their presence; we seemed to have nothing in common. I mentioned this in desperation to a man of twenty when I was perhaps fourteen. He had accused me of being silent. "I can't think of anything to talk about." If then I had known the derivation of boy and girl, I might have had a subject of conversation that was worth while.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

We have no dishwasher and my husband refuses to wash dishes at night while I dry them. I cannot wear rubber or synthetic gloves because I am allergic to them as well as to dishwasher suds of any kind.

I tried paper plates but my husband says, "No soap, babe."

Outside of getting another husband or hiring a maid which we can't afford—what's left?

Mrs. C. C.

I can just bet that thousands of other wives wish they were allergic to suds and working gloves!

In the first place, no woman should ever put her hands in any hot suds as far as I am concerned.

The thing to do is to rinse your dishes off with a little brush and cold water, and stack aside. If you are lucky enough to have a double sink, use it for rinsing off.

Put all your flat silver in the bottom of the sink, sprinkle your detergent over them, turn on your HOT water faucet full blast and let her roar.

Now gently slip your plates, saucers, bowls and cups into the suds as the sink fills up. Carefully lay your glasses on top and just cover them with the hot tap water. Turn the faucet off and forget them. DON'T touch them until the water is absolutely cold. Why have dishpan hands when you can avoid 'em?

Pull the plug out and as the water drains, pick up each piece of china, and with that same little brush lightly swipe each piece while running it under the faucet, which has now been regulated to suit your fancy. Place in drainer and that's all there is to it, gal.

Pots and pans can be done the same way but I wash and rinse mine the minute I pour the vittles out, and let drain while we eat.

This way the kitchen is at least half-clean when you sit down to eat.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever used tissue paper to hold very fine or slippery fabric in place while stitching on your sewing machine and then have to pick out the tissue from the seams when finished?

Well, a very dear and talented cousin of mine—and a real professional seamstress—taught me a little trick. When ever you get a gift box and wrappings from a department store, substitute the tissue inside the box with regular tissue. Then, use the tissue from the box on your garment or whatever.

You'll find that this tissue is slightly waxy and will peel away from the seams with the greatest of ease!

Betty B.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I know you don't get in family arguments, but I tell my husband that I am just plain tired and worn-out (two children and a big home to take care of all day), and he says I am just plain lazy.

Don't you think that a woman should know the difference in being lazy and tired?

I know when I am lazy!

MRS. JESSE F. SHORT JR.

MRS. HARRY G. BURNETT

(Lakeside Studio)

Area Weddings Announced

Miss Georgiana Julia Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Green of Route 1, 173 Fawn Road in Saugerties, became the bride of Jesse F. Short Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse F. Short Sr. of Route 3, Box 73, Saugerties, Saturday, July 11 at Centerville United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Myron F. Ronk officiated at the double ring ceremony. Organist Marion Newkirk accompanied Mildred Newkirk who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of gladioli and daisies decorated the altar and bows with gladioli marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a short white satin-lined lace dress. A headpiece of satin, lace and pearl held her illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Mrs. Camilla Tompkins of Route 2, Saugerties, was matron of honor in a short yellow chiffon dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Richard Short, brother of the bridegroom, Route 3, Box 73, Saugerties, was best man. Edward H. Green, brother of the bride, Saugerties, served as usher.

A reception for the family was held at Ivan's Restaurant in Marletown.

The bride, a graduate of Christopher Columbus High School in the Bronx, is employed as secretary at Ferroxcube Corporation of America in Saugerties.

Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School, is a business mason contractor. Mr. and Mrs. Short Jr. will reside at Route 1, Fawn Road, Saugerties, when they return from their wedding tour of upper New York State.

Sacred Heart Church in Palenville was the setting for the wedding of Miss Veronica Louise Alberti of Catskill to Harry Gilbert Burnett of 17 Valley Street, Saugerties, Saturday, July 18. The Rev. Ignatius Rosi officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Antonette Alberti of RR 1, Box 107, Catskill. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis F. Burnett of 17 Valley Street in Saugerties.

Mrs. Fannie Roberts, organist, accompanied Peter Sanson who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her godfather, Dominic D'Anallo, the bride wore a Victorian gown of nylon organza, styled with full billow sleeves and an embroidered lace bodice. A satin bow marked the empire waistline and detachable chapel train. A crown of organza petals with simulated pearls held her two-tier net veil and she carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Olive Minkler of 17 Russel Street in Saugerties was maid of honor in a floor-length gown of yellow and white lace accented with a bow at the waistline. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Salvatore Alberti of South Cairo, brother of the bride, was best man.

A lawn reception was held at the home of the bride.

For her wedding trip to Canada, the bride selected a beige dress with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Bay Ridge High School in Brooklyn, is employed by Ferroxcube Corporation of America in Saugerties. Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School, served with the U.S. Army for six years, and is also employed by Ferroxcube in Saugerties.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett will reside at Route 1, Kiskatom.

Stone House Day at New Paltz Scheduled For Saturday, Aug. 1, Starting at 10 a.m.

Final plans have been set for Stone House Day at New Paltz, which will be held on Saturday, Aug. 1 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Huguenot Street.

The 20th Year of Stone House Day promises to be one of the most interesting events that has been held to date.

Beginning at 10 a.m. the houses will be opened to the public with more than 100 people in costume providing a well-trained staff that will be the hosts to the many guests that come from all parts of the nation.

At 11 a.m. folk dances will be held on the Street near the Reformed Church. Mrs. Laurin Abrams is in charge of the dance group.

Myron VanderMark, rushing of chairs; Mrs. Anna Coons, caning of chairs; Mrs. Robert Johnson, butter making; Miss Carolyn Dressel, rug weaving; Mrs. Fred Dressel, bread making; Mrs. Kenneth Hasbrouck, spinning; Mrs. Beatrice H. Wadlin, spinning; Mrs. Albert Otis, candle making; Mrs. William Heider, lace making; Mrs. Esther Winkley, doughnut making; Mr. McClain, log hewing; Dr. Grand, violin making; Mrs. Lester Arnold and a group of ladies.

Other crafts include silversmithing, horseshoeing, pottery, cider making.

At 1:30 and once again at 3:30 Douglas Buys will present special concerts on the piano devoted to 17th Century French Music. The concerts will be held in the Fireside Room of the Christian Education Building.

At 2:15 the Burgher Guard of the Holland Society of New York will perform an ancient drill which was the custom of the first Dutch settlers in New Amsterdam when the first Huguenots arrived in America and found a home in this area.

The drill by the Burgher Guard will be the signal for the Canterbury Woodwind Quintet to begin the afternoon concert on the lawn of the Memorial House.

Guests should not miss the farm museum at Locust Lawn, located four miles south of the Village. Special exhibits have been planned. This fine house with its farm museum takes time, so guests might plan to go out there toward the end of the afternoon.

The newly arranged Doctors Memorial room at LeFever House will be a new experience for guests this year along with five special exhibits at Deyo Hall and the Social Room.

This year it would seem that it will be impossible for the guests to see everything on Stone House Day, so opportunity is now provided for people to select the events they want to visit.

Contact Kenneth Hasbrouck, or Deyo Hall, New Paltz, for information.

Wedding Told

United Memorial Methodist Church in Taunton, Mass., was the setting for the wedding of Miss Joanne Keay, daughter of Mrs. Walter Keay of Raynham, Mass., and the late Walter Keay, to William F. Bruckert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bruckert of Kingston, on Saturday, June 27. The Rev. Dr. Howard Love officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Roger Hill, the bride wore a gown of nylon organza and lace, featuring an empire waistline and chapel length train. Her fingertip veil was held by a crown of orange blossoms and seed pearls and she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Linda Call of Westfield, Mass., served as maid of honor in a Nile green chiffon gown, fashioned with a stand-up collar and empire waistline. She carried a cascade of white daisies.

Attendants were JoAnn Gula of Taunton, Mass.;

Dianne Conway of South Hadley, Mass.; and Joan Hultquist of New York. All attendants wore gowns identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's and carried cascades of yellow daisies.

Edward Bruckert of Stow, Mass., twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were James Bruckert, brother of the bridegroom, Woodstock; Edward Mackie of Kingston; and Peter Boers, formerly of Holland, and now a resident of Lake Katrine.

A reception was held in the church hall.

For her wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the bride chose an aqua crepe dress with white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Taunton High School and is a student at University of Massachusetts. Her husband, an alumnus of University of Massachusetts, class of 1969, is employed by Digital Equipment Corporation of Maynard, Mass.

Soprano Veronica Tyler at SPA Tonight

Veronica Tyler, one of America's most gifted young sopranos, presents the fourth in a series of chamber music concerts sponsored by the Saratoga Performing Arts Center this evening at 8:30 o'clock at Canfield Casino in downtown Saratoga Springs.

Offering the first lieder recital ever to be presented on the series, she will perform songs by Schubert, Rodrigo, Tchaikovsky, Richard Strauss and Polenc as well as a selection of spirituals. In an unusual departure, her rendition of the Tchaikovsky pieces is in the original Russian.

A leading soprano of the New York City Opera, Miss Tyler has distinguished herself in Mozart's "The Magic Flute" and Puccini's "La Boheme." She has won further operatic acclaim for her roles as Micaela in the San Francisco Opera's 1968 "Carmen" and as Liu in a production of "Turandot" staged last season in Venice, Italy.

As a soloist, she has appeared with the symphony orchestras of New York, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Baltimore, Houston, Buffalo, Rochester and many others. She has also sung frequently at the White House at State functions.

She is featured July 31 in a performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony under the baton of Stanislaw Skrowaczewski and Aug. 2 in a "Gershwin on Broadway" program conducted by Andre Kostelanetz.

'Quiet' LaRoche House 'Jumping'

PARIS (UPI) — Since Bernard Cornfeld bought into the quiet designing house of Guy LaRoche, it has changed abruptly into one of the liveliest in Paris.

For one thing, LaRoche's winter collection unveiled recently—all on a Russian and Central Asian theme—was praised fervently by press and buyers as one of the best in Paris. The Mongolian style coats and Russian peasant dresses, looking like costumes of the Moiseyev Folk Dance Troupe of Moscow, were a far cry from the less inspired LaRoche of yore.

A LaRoche spokesman insisted the clothes and show were LaRoche's ideas and not those of Cornfeld, recently deposed head of the Investors Overseas Service IOS.

Many Maxi-Coats

LaRoche showed maxi-coats for both men and women lined with curly or shaggy Mongolian fur with fur boots to match. With many outfits, the girls wore peaked Mongolian or Central Asian caps.

Cossack-type knickers tucked into boots were topped by narrow midi-dresses. Enormous capes were lined with Mongolian fur or edged with elaborate jeweled Russian embroidery. High waisted midi-dresses of peasant-like fabric had little jackets and babushka headscarves. Coats, cocktail dresses and floor-length evening gowns sparkled with peasant embroidery.

The LaRoche clothes for men also got into the Russian mood. For evening the male models wore lame cossack-type tunics over knickers and boots. There were even two floor-length male "dresses" with glittering Russian embroidery around the high necklines slit to the waist.

LaRoche showed no long trousers for women in his show, but Pierre Cardin and Gabrielle Chanel saved that style from extinction Tuesday.

Both creators included long pants in their fashion shows, Cardin showing enough to keep them from being abolished along with knee-baring skirts.

But Cardin showed even more of the newer knickerbocker and gauchito pants that have inundated the Paris collections.

Usual Chain

Chanel displayed black knit trousers with a multicolored tweed long jacket belted with her usual gold chain.

Cardin, Chanel and designer Gerard Pipart at the Nina Ricci Salon also used the just-below-the-knee skirt that appeared short next to the midis and maxis. Cardin's striped jerseys just met the tops of knee length white patent leather charcoal gray slim dresses also brushed the tops of brown boots.

Unchanging throughout the entire mini-maxi hysteria, Chanel calmly showed her unbeatable classic suits at the same knee-covering length she always had used.

"CAT SUIT"—André Courreges, who started the trouser suit fad in 1963, concentrates on this all-in-one jump-suit or "cat suit" offered during showing of his 1970-71 winter collection in Paris recently. Elegant and strict, the overall is done in herringbone grey wool with brown leather and white button closing. The same brown leather is used at cuffs and on the officer-uniform-like collar. (UPI Cablephoto)

PEASANT STYLE—Models Sini, left, and Elizabeth display two peasant-styled, white embroidered red woolen gowns from the 1970-71 winter collection of designer Guy La Roche. He presented the collection July 22 in Paris. (UPI Cablephoto)

Elegant Italian High Fashion Has Gone Drip-Dry

ROME UPI—The elegant world of Italian high fashion has gone drip dry—American style.

American designers Michael La Mendola and Jack Savage showed the international fashion press and buyers in a midnight show recently that wash-and-wear synthetics can be used in style year 'round.

Their colorful "Four Seasons" collection in blue for autumn, red for winter, green for spring and yellow for summer came in chiffon, crepe, satin, pongee, heavy twill and gabardine—all of them made of synthetics or of dacron-cotton blends.

The collection was commissioned by Klopman International, a division of Burlington Industries, to illustrate the uses of their new Italian-made synthetic fabrics made from DuPont fibers. La Mendola usually works in costlier silks and wool knits.

There was a harem look to abstract print dresses over long harem pants in blue twill coats.

Even more harem was a beach outfit of beaded bikini and dacron chiffon print coverup in pale yellow. The coverup outfit was a butterfly-sleeved garment with harem pants, the bodice slit to the bottom of the hip and tied at the neck. It would not prevent sunburn.

Daytime dresses came with full sleeves, often swirling out from smocked shoulders. An evening pantsuit in solid chartreuse had a hip-length bodice, solidly smocked, and sleeves and huge pantlegs of knife-pleated chiffon.

Silk twills in red floral prints were made into gowns with double circle skirts, so full and heavy they knocked over floorstanding astrays as the models swirled by.

One nonsynthetic sneaked into the show—a floor-length green print evening gown with flared skirt came with a matching tight-sleeved coat which reversed to black ostrich.

Rhinebeck Youth Doing Well After Successful Kidney Transplant

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK, N.Y. (AP) — A 17-year-old Rhinebeck youth who underwent a successful kidney transplant at Albany Medical Center several days ago, anticipates coming home in another "eight or nine days," according to a spokesman at the hospital. Pinney received a kidney from his father in a July 14 operation, and doctors are reportedly pleased at his progress, noting that there is no sign of rejection of the new tissue.

Mark now has three kidneys. His own two did not function correctly, forcing him to go on the renal dialysis machines for the past two years at Albany Medical Center.

John Cassidy, of that hospital, said that the new kidney is located in the pelvic area. He added that if the new kidney continues to work satisfactorily, surgeons will probably remove his original kidneys so that the risk of infection will be decreased.

Since dialysis on an artificial kidney is so time-consuming, Mark has been attending school at Rhinebeck High School part-time. Those persons with failing kidneys must use an artificial kidney as often as three times each week for six to 12 hours each time.

Burt Pinney, Mark's father, was discharged from the hospital Tuesday. It was the first case of a father donating a kidney to his son at Albany Medical Center, although a daughter did receive one from her father. And it was the seventh successful kidney transplant at that hospital since the first attempt in August, 1969. The operation was performed by a team of four surgeons.

Although neither Mr. and Mrs. Pinney have shown any trace of kidney failure, all three of their sons were taken ill in 1968. Todd, the youngest, and Bruce, the oldest, both died of the disease. According to the hospital spokesman, there have been reports of renal failure being hereditary, although it is not commonly thought so.

$1 enrolls you and your family in this

$5,600.00

MEDICAL-SURGICAL-NURSE PLAN

PAYS you CASH for Doctor Visits

... Pays as much as $500.00 for bedside visits of doctors, medical consultants and specialists during non-surgical hospital confinements, or...

PAYS you CASH for Surgery

... Pays as much as $600.00 for operations—even pays for surgery in doctor's office or at home—according to a liberal schedule printed right in your Policy, plus...

PAYS you CASH for Home Nurse Care

... Pays as much as $5,000.00 for a full-time Registered Nurse when you come home from hospital.

YES, $1 COVERS YOUR ENTIRE FAMILY FOR THE FIRST MONTH. THEN CONTINUE AT WORLD MUTUAL'S REGULAR RATES.

Many people discover — after it's too late — that their health insurance doesn't pay all the bills. It does NOT pay for services of doctors, nurses, specialists, surgeons... does NOT generally pay for surgery performed in a doctor's office... does NOT pay for nursing care at home. They learn to their regret that these expenses must be paid out of their own pocket!

But now, World Mutual's Medical-Surgical-Nurse family health plan fills the "money gaps" in your health protection. It provides ALL these cash benefits. Pays you for operations and surgery in the hospital.

... Pays tax-free cash for appendectomy, gall bladder removal, mastoidectomy, hernia, hysterectomy, and all other operations listed in your Policy. You get up to a maximum of $600.00 paid directly to you for each operation.

... Pays tax-free cash for minor surgery like a wart removal; a hemorrhoid excision; or a cyst removal. You get paid for the cost of every operation—from a minimum of $30.00 to a maximum of $600.00.

... Pays tax-free cash for bedside visits while hospitalized for a non-surgical confinement. World Mutual pays you $5.00 cash for one visit per day by a physician (any physician who submits a bill, even your family doctor!) to a maximum of $500.00 for each year.

... Even after you collect the large surgical or non-surgical hospital benefits, if your doctor has you employ a full-time Registered Nurse within 5 days after you come home, we'll send you checks for $100.00 a week — for as long as you were hospitalized — even as much as $5,000.00 tax-free cash! How comforting to know that, after your stay of 5 or more days in the hospital, you can go home to recuperate and not be a burden to your loved ones.

Pays cash direct to you... tax-free cash rushed by mail direct to you (not to doctor or hospital)—cash for Medical, Surgical, Nurse benefits that can total $5,600.00!

What if you already own some health insurance?

WE PAY YOU IN ADDITION TO WHATEVER YOU COLLECT FROM ANY OTHER INSURANCE with any other companies. Even if it's for the same illness! And even if it means you'll be collecting twice! In fact we say:

Never mind what Blue Cross pays you. Never mind what benefits you receive from Blue Shield, Workmen's Compensation, Medicare, Medicaid or any other insurance you may have with any other company. We still pay you cash benefits—right up to the maximum. Which means that even if your other insurance has already paid some, or all, of your medical bills—you still collect from World Mutual! And every dollar is yours — to spend any way you like. No reduction in benefits if you're 65 or over.

You're not penalized because of advanced age. Yes, even if you are 65 or over, you receive the same cash benefits for operations... the same cash benefits for bedside doctor visits... the same cash benefits for minor surgery in the doctor's office... the same cash benefits for home nursing as folks younger than you. Can you think of any other insurance plan that provides such exceptional over-age coverage as World Mutual?

How can World Mutual give you so much for only $1 for a whole month?

You deal direct with the Company—direct with World Mutual itself. No salesman will call. That's because you virtually enroll yourself using the Application Form right on this page. Costly "processing charges" are eliminated. So is the "red tape" that normally increases the price you pay for insurance. No one need know your personal affairs, except you. And when you reply before the date shown in the Application Form below...

ACT NOW — THIS ENROLLMENT PERIOD ENDS MIDNIGHT, THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1970

NO AGE LIMIT. NO SALESMAN WILL CALL.

Only $1 enrolls your ENTIRE FAMILY!

You really can put this protection in force for your whole family at a cost of—not $20.00... not $10.00... not even $5.00—but only the introductory price of $1 for the first month regardless of your age. And then:

Collect whenever any covered member of your family requires surgery, or hospital medical care, and a full-time Registered Nurse after coming home from the hospital! Maybe hundreds, even thousands of dollars will be paid to you in medical, surgical and nursing benefits! Coverage is for your whole family. Imagine, whenever illness or injury strikes you or your loved ones — you can receive tax-free cash for each covered family member.

Stop for a moment — and think.

Think how much a long illness or accident can cost you these days. How would you ever pay those big doctor bills, the cost of operations and home nursing care? What would you do if your pay check stopped, and there was no other source of income to meet medical expenses that piled up on top of the same day-to-day living expenses that never stop? But now you can have the extra help you need — when you need it most — with this World Mutual Medical-Surgical-Nurse Plan (WNL24-1168).

We can never cancel your policy!

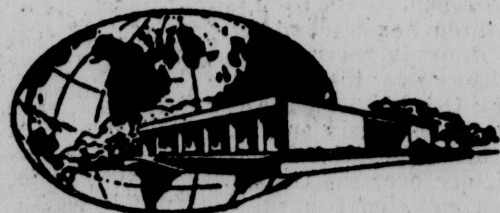

You can count on World Mutual's wonderful protection no matter how old you get or how many times you collect from us! It is written into your Policy that we cannot cancel your protection after you've made a lot of claims, or become old—or both—or for any other reason whatsoever! It is GUARANTEED RENEWABLE FOR LIFE! Only you can cancel.

Doesn't enrolling by mail take away the "personal touch?"

Not at all! We give you more personal service, not less. But instead of getting it when you sign up, GET IT WHEN YOU WANT TO SUBMIT A CLAIM! That's where it really means something. And that's where World Mutual gives you plenty of personal service. For example, we rush your claim checks direct to you by mail, not to the hospital or doctor.

No embarrassing "investigations."

That's right! Forget about filling out one of those lengthy, complicated questionnaires. Or answering a lot of personal questions. Or being "investigated" before your Policy is issued, the way some companies require. The short form on this page tells us all we need to know.

The World Mutual Medical-Surgical-Nurse Plan
The World Mutual Health and Accident Ins. Co. of Penna.
11401 Roosevelt Blvd., Philadelphia, Pa.
(Home office: King of Prussia, Pa.)

What DOESN'T your valuable World Mutual protection cover?

Get ready for a welcome surprise. It covers absolutely everything except conditions caused by: act of war; pregnancy; mental or nervous disorders; dental repair or surgery except where repair is necessary due to injury to natural teeth; where care is in a U.S. Government hospital; and expenses resulting from any sickness or injury you had before the Effective Date of the Policy (for the first year only).

Why you must act before the deadline date.

Unless we receive your Application Form the same time as everyone else's, we can't pass on the printing and processing savings that come from issuing many policies at one time. That's why we must impose a deadline date which cannot be extended even one day. If your Form arrives too late, WE WILL NOT BE ALLOWED TO ACCEPT IT.

If you change your mind — we'll give your money back!

You are still free to return the Policy within 15 days of the day you receive it, and your dollar will be refunded at once. There will be no obligation whatever — for you. The only obligation is ours. Meanwhile, all during the 15 days you are deciding—you'll be protected by all the cash benefits of the Policy just as if you had already said "yes." That's right, you will be fully covered all this time, even if you finally decide to return the Policy and get your dollar back.

The reliable company behind your Policy.

Your Policy is guaranteed by the World Mutual Health and Accident Insurance Company of Pennsylvania. We have been helping families safeguard their security with sound insurance protection for more than 47 years.

You can count on us to handle your claims fairly and promptly when you are hospitalized. World

Mutual has paid claims in every state and in many foreign countries as well.

Here are your renewal rates.

The following rate chart shows how little it costs after the first month to cover yourself, your spouse and any adult dependents. Naturally, at these rates we can issue you only one policy of this type. Each person, 16 or over, pays the rate shown for his or her age.

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium per Adult
16-39	only $2.30
40-49	only $2.85
50-59	only $3.35
60-69	only $4.15
70-79	only $4.95
80 and over	only $5.70

Only $2.75 more per month covers all your dependent, unmarried children...

from the age of 1 month through 18 years. Newborn children are covered automatically at the age of one month—at no additional cost!

NOTE: The regular monthly premium shown above (for your age at time of enrollment) is the same premium you will continue to pay; it will not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next. Once you have enrolled, your rate can never be changed because of how much or how often you collect from us—or because of advanced age—but only if there is a general rate adjustment, up or down, on all policies of this type in your entire state.

Act NOW — "Later" May Be TOO Late!

Get your Application Form into the mail today—because once you suffer an accident or sickness, it's TOO LATE to buy protection at any cost. That's why we urge you to act today — before anything unexpected happens.

12 QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS about World Mutual's Medical-Surgical-Nurse Plan

1. How much will my Policy pay me?

Your Policy pays you 3 ways, and as much as $5,600.00 TAX-FREE CASH. It pays you up to $600.00 for operations. It pays you to a maximum of $500.00 for doctor's bedside visits in the hospital for a non-surgical confinement. And it pays you up to $5,000.00 for nursing care at home after a covered hospital stay. You can count on World Mutual's Medical-Surgical-Nurse Plan for the cash you need—when you need it most! Naturally, at these rates we can issue you only one Policy of this type.

2. How much do I collect for doctor visits while in the hospital?

We pay you to a maximum of $500.00 TAX-FREE CASH at the rate of $5.00 per visit for any doctor or specialist of your choice who makes a bedside visit (limit 1 per day) when you're in the hospital for any reason other than surgery.

3. How much do I collect for operations?

We pay you to a maximum of $600.00 TAX-FREE CASH for expenses incurred with surgical operations—we even pay for a simple one your family doctor performs.

4. Do I also collect cash benefits for minor surgery performed in my doctor's office?

You receive cash benefits for surgery even when you go to your doctor's office for a simple operation like setting a broken bone, having a cyst removed, oral surgery, or anything else! Any time a doctor does surgery, whether it's in the hospital or in his office, we pay you CASH BENEFITS!

5. What if I have more than one operation at the same time?

In that case—we pay you for the most expensive one performed—even up to $600.00 CASH in some cases!

6. How much do I receive for a full-time Registered Nurse at home?

$100.00 A WEEK for as many days as you were hospitalized—to a maximum of $5,000.00. Benefits are paid after you have been hospitalized for 5 days or more, and your doctor has you employ a full-time Registered Nurse within 5 days after you leave the hospital.

7. Suppose I am paid benefits when hospitalized for sickness or accident. What happens if I am again hospitalized for the same condition?

Don't worry. You can still collect as much as $5,600.00. And if you have already resumed normal activities for just 3 months, it's considered a new confinement, and you can collect up to the full amount again!

8. May I enroll if I am 65 or over?

Certainly! Folks any age are welcome to enroll—there is no age limit, and you collect the full cash benefits allowed.

9. Will you cancel my Policy if I make too many claims? Or because of advanced age?

No—positively not! Only you can cancel. The Company cannot—no matter how many claims you have... how old you get or for any other reason whatsoever. A GUARANTEED-RENEWABLE-FOR-LIFE clause has been written into your Policy.

10. What is not covered by this Policy?

The only conditions not covered are those caused by: act of war; mental or nervous disorders; pregnancy; dental repair or surgery except where repair is necessary due to injury to natural teeth; where care is in a U.S. Government hospital; and expenses resulting from any sickness or injury you had before the Policy Effective Date (during the first year only). EVERYTHING ELSE IS COVERED.

11. What are the requirements for membership in the World Mutual Plan?

You must not have been refused or had cancelled any health, hospital or life insurance for reasons of health; and, to qualify during this Enrollment Period, you must enroll before midnight of the date shown on the Application Form.

12. How do I join?

Fill out the brief Application Form and mail it, with just $1 for the first month's protection for you and your entire family. Mail to: The World Mutual Health & Accident Ins. Co. of Penna., 11401 Roosevelt Blvd., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19154.

— It's Arnold Palmer (L) and Jack Nicklaus, winners of the championship staged last week at Palmer's home course, the in Ligonier, Pa. The two greats won the event in yesterday's said Palmer: "This is the best member-guest event I've ever back every year." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Ball Is Victor stern Tennis

was," he said. "On that eighth game he came back from 40-15 to win and his shots were right on the lines."

Sunday was not a good day for the Richeys in general. Cliff's sister, Nancy, the top ranked woman player in the U.S. and seeded No. 1 in the tournament, played one of her poorer games to date as she lost the women's singles title to Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 6-3, 6-3.

"She (Casals) played very well and I didn't have much on the ball," Miss Richey said. "The combination of those two things was the difference."

Miss Casals, a former pro who has returned to the "amateur" ranks, said she thought the fact that the rain had slowed the artificial clay courts somewhat helped her.

"It slowed down Nancy's pace and took something off her ground shots," the petite brunette said.

She insisted that she "didn't hit the ball any harder" than Miss Richey despite repeated points made on hard overhead slams, but she said she probably "played a more aggressive game."

The win Sunday was worth $1,000 to Miss Casals and was her second singles win in a row as she took the Swiss international title two weeks ago.

The Romanian Davis Cup team of Ion Tiriac and Ilie Nastase put together a steady, precision game to upset top-seeded Bob Hewitt and Fred McMillan of South Africa, 6-3, 6-4, to conclude activity at the Western.

The win reversed a loss the Romanians suffered at the hands of the South Africans a week ago in the Washington Star Tournament.

Four to Be Inducted In Hall of Fame Today

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (UPI) —One-time Commissioner Ford Frick and three former players will be inducted today into baseball's Hall of Fame.

Slated for induction along with Frick were Lou Boudreau, five-time All-Star infielder and ex-manager; Earl Coombs, former centerfielder for the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinal pitching star Jesse Haines.

Induction ceremonies were to be followed by the annual Hall of Fame exhibition game between the Montreal Expos and the Chicago White Sox on Doubleday Field.

Plaques of the four new inductees will be unveiled by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. Also scheduled to be present at the ceremonies in this upstate hamlet were National League President Charles Feeney, American League chief Joe Cronin, former NL President Warren Giles and club Presidents John Allyn of the White Sox, John McHale of the Expos and E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi of the San Diego Padres.

Frick was one of the men who helped conceive the idea of a Hall of Fame for the sport 35 years ago.

Allen Takes State Title

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Don Allen of Rochester gained four strokes on the last five holes Saturday, and won his fourth state men's amateur golf championship.

Defending titlist Terry Diehl, also of Rochester, soared to an apparent three-stroke lead with a birdie on the 15th hole. But he bogied the next three while Allen, playing a hole behind, tallied an eagle, three pars and a bogie to defeat Diehl 286-287 in the medalist competition.

Allen, 32-year-old former Walker Cup player, won the tournament in match play in 1961, 1963, and 1964. He went into the final 18 holes two strokes ahead of Diehl, but the two were even when Allen stepped off the fifth green.

Diehl went ahead on the sixth hole when Allen three-putted for a bogie.

The 21-year-old University of Georgia senior never lost the lead until the final hole. He pushed it to three strokes on holes seven and eight with birdies, but Allen birdied the ninth to make the turn two away.

Diehl seemingly wrapped up the tournament on hole 15, tallying a birdie while Allen helped playing partner John Govern of Binghamton search for a lost ball.

Allen teed off on hole 14 apparently three strokes back with only five holes to go. He made the par-five 14th green in two and putted in from 35 feet for an eagle and a two-stroke gain.

Allen parred 15 and both men bogied 16. Diehl lost a stroke on 17 when his second shot went into the face of an evergreen and he was forced to take a drop.

Allen parred 17 while Diehl, still tied for the lead, began on the par-four 18th.

Diehl's drive went into the rough. His wedge fell 10 feet short of the green. He recovered with a tip-up that stopped five feet from the pin, but missed the putt for a bogie 5.

Diehl watched Allen make it to the edge of the green in two and two-putt in for a par and the championship.

Allen finished the afternoon with a one-over 73 on the Locust Hill Country Club course. Diehl totaled a 94 for the day.

The tournament was played on a medalist competition instead of match play for the first time in its history.

Braves and North Stars Win

KINGSTON Newburgh Atoms opened the fifth, otherwise he was in back of a big inning. A big showdown is scheduled for Tuesday night when the Poughkeepsie Lasers come into Dietz Stadium determined to beat the Braves and clinch the first half outright. The Braves have nominated Buster Narum. The Laser pitching choice has not been announced.

Northern Division pitching frame with a double. John Alley command all the way against the Rockets, who were ob Carter, a hit batsman (Greg Rios) and Hawkins' single. Singles by Jerry Hawkins and Dave Horton and Joe Schabot later Schabot's sacrifice fly with the Braves with the bases loaded accounted for the Braves' third run of the inning. Hawkins and Horton each collected two singles.

Brett Stapleton Cop Member-Guest

WOODSTOCK 4 on the par-three 4th hole the second time around. In a masterpiece of understatement, Brett Stapleton as a "perfect partner, who played a tremendous game and helped get my name in print."

Sharing a third place tie with net 61s were the teams of Alex Sharpe, Jr. and his son-in-law, Robert Benoit of Grand Rapids (33-28) and Jim Worthington and guest Harry LeFevre of Wiltwyck Country Club (30-31). Sharpe carded 38-35-73 on his own ball.

Dr. E. B. Blumenfeld and his partner, Sol Silverman, were all alone at 33-29-61. Drew Rubin (4) and Bill Van Aken (Wiltwyck, 2) the lowest handicapped team in the field posted 32-31-63. Both shot identical rounds of 36-36-72 and, ironically, neither was able to bag a birdie-4 on the relatively easy (for them) par-five fifth hole.

The summaries:

Morton Brett - Walt Stapleton, 27-30-57.
Dr. Gordon Rubin-Morty Bauman, 30-30-60.
Alex Sharpe Jr.-Robert Benoit, 33-28-61; James Worthington-Harry LeFevre, 30-31-61; Dr. E. B. Blumenfeld - Sol Silverman, 33-29-62.

Lions Top the Lions

KINGSTON The Kingston Lions, led by the pitching and hitting of Kevin Jones, scored four runs in the top of the eighth inning to defeat the Hurley Lions, 4-0. The game was a Babe Ruth contest.
Losing pitcher Dan Brown and Jones, hooked up in a real pitcher's duel for seven innings. Brown struck out 13 and walked none, but allowed 10 hits. Jones fired a four-hitter, struck out

Esopus Vs. Hurley In Finals of L.L.

KINGSTON The Town of Esopus and Hurley Little League All-Star teams will clash tonight at the Jaycee's Park in Forsyth Park beginning at 6 p. m. to decide the Ulster County Championship.
The winner earns the right to meet the winner of the Dutchess County championship at the Highland Park Wednesday night at 6 p. m.
Esopus has turned back the Ulster All-Stars 6-1, and Rondout 11-0 to reach the finals. Hurley defeated Kingston Nationals 1-0, and Ontario 18-6.
Starting pitchers have not been announced for the game, but our guess would be either Cliff Lyons or Don VanLoan for Esopus and Joe Seymour or Al Johnson for Hurley.
Vince Moden has the big bat in the Esopus line-up with three home runs in two games.

Legion Bows First Time

COXSACKIE doubled to right. Fred Flood walked. George Gnauleas the losing pitcher then struck out Dave Cole for the second out. Two pass balls in succession allowed Betke to score from second base.
Geanuleas fanned 11 batters and walked three. Carroll allowed no walks and K'd seven. Ralph Perry had two of the three local hits.
Kingston will represent the league in the New York State Tournament at Albany this weekend. The pairings will be announced later this week.
Athens scored single runs in the fifth and sixth innings. In the fifth after one out, pitcher Tom Carroll doubled to left. Len Reyngoudt followed with a single to centerfield scoring Carroll.
Again after one out in the sixth this time, Al Betke

WOMANS CHAMPION — Ruth Goldin, the newly crowned Ulster County Women's Singles tennis champion, shown in action against Kitty Fowler, defending champion, in finals Saturday at Forsyth Park. She won in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Pete Zeeth won his fourth consecutive men's singles championship in convincing fashion yesterday over veteran Dick Little, 6-2, 6-1, in the Ulster County Tennis Championships staged at Forsyth Park.	KINGSTON While Pete managed to repeat, defending women's singles champ. Kitty Fowler, did not, losing to Ruth Goldin, Ellenville, 6-2, 6-3.	Pete managed to 6-1, 6-1. Kitty Fowler and her sister, Barbara Badalato, kept the women's doubles title in the family as they downed Goldin and Kitty Samuels, 6-2, 6-2. Kitty and her mother, Mary Fowler, had won the title last year. Things went as expected in

MONTICELLO
Eldon Harner apparently can do no wrong since his arrival at the Mighty M. The star of his stable, Deputy Hanover (winner of over $200,000), won Saturday $6,500 free for all pace, but had a lot going for him in the process. First of all, he benefited by the late scratches of Worthy Jimmy and Torpid Vic. Next, he received an alert driver from his trainer. Deputy broke on top, then gave way to Gilles Lachance's defending FFA champion, Black Swan N. A mixup at the half knocked Jim Grundy's Jimmy the edged Father Levi's Coldstream Chuck by a half length in 2:01.3, paying $12.60.

First Pick N. kept his slate clean at Monticello Raceway, winning his third straight U.S. start for a new personal tab of 2:04.3 in three evening opener. Don Gillis upset the even money favorite, Senator Frost N., with Jimmie Wingfield's Sparky Dares to annex the second in 2:04, a lifetime record for the Meadow Gene colt, and create a $37.40 daily double on the 4-6 combination.

Pride of Hanover and Gary Myer cut all the early fractions in the first race, with Tyrel (John Del Gatto) sitting right on his back. As the field headed for paydirt, Ken Heenev had the strongest horse and was able to subdue Pride of Hanover by three-quarters of a length with Ken McNutt's favored Grawlin Silver coming on for third. The win payoff was $7.40.

Sparky Dares sprung from the gate on top in the second, only to give way to Senator Frost N. past the quarter. From there, the fractions of :30.1-1:01.1 and 1:32.4 apparently caught up with the Hayes steed

MONTICELLO RESULTS

Deputy Hanover sat in the garden spot for the rest of the mile, making his move at about the sixteenth pole which was enough for the victory. After the disqualification of Gilles Lachance's Black Swan N., from second to last, Eldon's dad, Levi, was moved up to second with Adios Wilton, as Runnymede Chuck and Gary Myer assumed third position. The winning time was 2:03.2 and Deputy Hanover paid $8.00 to win.

SULTAN OUSTED — Sultan Said Bin Taimur, 60, was ousted as ruler of the oil-rich Persian Gulf state of Muscat and Oman in a coup and replaced on the throne by his British-educated son, Said Bin Qabus, according to diplomatic sources in London. British government sources said that Bin Taimur, who had ruled the backward state for 38 years, was overthrown July 23, and is now in a hospital in Britain recovering from a gunshot wound. His is reportedly not serious. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Woodstock Man Arrested on Three Charges

WOODSTOCK — A 39-year-old man was arrested Sunday by town police on three charges stemming from a complaint that he entered a residence and tore water color paintings from walls and damaged a screen. Irving Klineberg of Ohayo Mt. Road, was taken into custody on complaint of Harold Anton of Tinker Street. The arrest was made by Constable Ludwig Baumgarten. According to Chief William E. Waterous, Klineberg was accused of going into the Anton home and tearing the paintings from the wall. Charged with criminal trespass first degree, criminal mischief and harassment, Klineberg was committed to the county jail in lieu of $300 bail and hearing was adjourned until Friday before Town Justice Rudolf Baumgarten.

Troopers Stop Lloyd Driver, Gets Citation

HIGHLAND — A 21-year-old Town of Lloyd youth was cited early today by State Police on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated after he was stopped on Route 9W by Troopers J. E. Hornbeck and L. J. Lang. Charles A. Mann of this community was held in $100 bail pending a hearing July 31 before New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider. Mann reportedly submitted to a breathalyzer test.

Sgt. Electrocuted — ROME, N.Y. (UPI)—Sgt. Jerry Clary, 24, of New Hartford, was electrocuted accidentally Saturday at Griffiss Air Force Base, authorities said. Clary's body was to be taken to Charlotte, N.C., for burial. Air Force officials revealed no further details except that he died at the base hospital one-half hour after receiving the shock.

Father Charged — SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI)—Ronald Crenshaw, 23, was charged with first degree manslaughter after the death of his son Sunday. Robert Crenshaw, 2, died of injuries resulting from burns and a beating, authorities said. He lived at 256 Huelett Ave.

Multiple Problems At Enterprise Fund

Q — I hold shares of Enterprise Fund for long-term growth. For the past several weeks only a bid or redemption price has been listed. My broker tells me they cannot sell shares. What does this mean? — R.M. and F.W.

A — In an early March action the federal court in Los Angeles barred Enterprise from selling additional shares pending correction of their records. This climaxed a back-office paperwork problem that began in early 1967. Enterprise, in 24 months, had exploded from $30 million to an almost $1 billion asset fund. Back-office procedures capable of handling accounts for a small fund could simply not be expanded sufficiently to cope with the added volume. As a result, discrepancies between the number of shares credited to individual accounts and those in the capital stock control account were discovered.

Enterprise claims that changes instituted over the last several months have almost wholly reconciled these differences. Clearing operations were transferred to the State Street Bank & Trust Co., a firm which is accustomed to handling accounts of this size. Parent company, Shareholders Management, has installed computer-based back-office systems for funds under its aegis.

The earlier resignation of Fred Carr, who had been closely linked in peoples' minds with the growth of Enterprise, also marred the fund's image. Portfolio management has now been divided among five men, under the leadership of highly qualified Larry Rader, a company veteran.

By splitting responsibility for the portfolio, it is hoped that growth will more closely resemble that of a small fund. Although there is validity in this system, it also creates difficulties and duplication. A central trading desk eliminates the possibility of two managers bidding in competition on one issue — or one buying what the other is selling. Recent portfolio positions taken by the five managers represent both large multiples and young firms with high potential and also high risk.

Q — I am in my 20s and would like to embark on a long-range stock accumulation program, investing every three months or so. Could you name four good stocks for a portfolio starter? — D.P.

A — Topping my list is IBM, the premier company in computers. Stock is currently selling at less than 28x this year's estimated earnings — historically a low multiple for this stock.

Digital Equipment would be my second choice. Often called the IBM of the smaller computer field, Digital controls around 60 per cent of the minicomputer market — one of the fastest-growing segments of the data processing industry.

My third selection, Avon Products, is one of the best merchandisers in any field. Stock, recently split, is selling well below its high. An issue such as Avon should command a premium multiple for years to come.

Coca-Cola to Give Better Housing, Sanitation, Rec for Migrant Help

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Coca-Cola Company says it plans to provide better housing, sanitation and recreational facilities for its migrant workers, who have been described in congressional testimony as living in squalor.

The Senate subcommittee on migratory labor summoned the president of the world's largest soft drink company today to answer criticisms that Coke exploited seasonal workers in the Florida citrus groves.

J. Paul Austin of Atlanta, president of Coca-Cola, brought along the president of the company's Foods Division, J. Lucien Smith.

Smith revealed plans last month for a broad program of reform of Coca-Cola's farm-labor practices at a meeting of its citrus managers. The company released the text of Smith's speech Thursday.

Smith Is Quoted
Smith was quoted as telling the meeting:
"It is high time that we in business and industry re-examine our practices to make sure we are relevant to the current needs of society...
"The day has passed in American commerce when any man may be regarded as a cog in a mechanism, an expendable and replaceable part."
Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., chairman of the subcommittee, invited the Coke officials to testify after hearing this description of the firm's citrus operations from Philip Moore, director of the project for corporate responsibility.

"The Coca-Cola Company is one of the biggest Florida citrus growers and distributors. One of Coke's Minute Maid groves...in Frostproof, Fla., is serviced by migratory quarters that house between two and three hundred people. They have no indoor water or plumbing; there is no hot water; the conditions of the houses are unquestionably bad. But what is worse even than the housing conditions is the social control that is maintained over the life style of the migrants and all the basic life support systems of the migrants."

A Vicious Cycle
"In order to live in the houses, a family must work for Coke. If somebody is sick, the foreman — not a doctor — can decide if the person can stay home. If the foreman decided that a worker is not sick, then he must either work or risk eviction."

"With eviction comes total loss of income, housing, medical support and food. Coke maintains no day-care facilities — children must either go to the fields or hang around the quarters. The families need the children to help pack the oranges — the cycle continues unending. If one part of the cycle breaks down, the worker's whole life breaks."

Smith in last month's speech outlined a number of reforms he said Coke was ready to undertake. They included decent housing, sanitation and recreation facilities, child care centers, medical care, safe and modern buses, and permanent jobs for as many as possible.

Ted Kennedy Released From Probation Term

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has been released from his one year's probation for leaving the scene of the accident that resulted in the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.
Dukes County officials said Saturday Mrs. Helen G. Tyra, the probation officer, wrote to District Court Judge Samuel M. Flacksman saying Kennedy had fulfilled the terms of probation established by Judge James A. Boyle.
The release from probation cleared the way for Kennedy to re-apply before a Massachusetts driver's license can be issued. Kennedy will have to undergo a hearing and pass a driver's test.

Dear Abby

Get Him Off Mind

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 34-year-old married woman and here is my problem. I am in love with a kid who comes into my husband's service station. He is 16. I told my husband I was in love with this kid, and my husband says I should forget it as it would never work out. I've asked a few friends and they agree with my husband. A couple of people have said I am out of my mind.

My husband says it's because he's a motherless boy, and I never had any children of my own and what I feel for him is really "mother love," but you'd better believe it does not resemble anything near that. This kid has been real sweet to me at times, but other times he will tell me he likes this young girl and that young girl which about tears me apart. I send him love letters and call him on the phone a lot, but I can't stop. I don't suppose it could ever work out, but how can I get this kid out of my heart?

LOVESICK IN PA.

DEAR LOVESICK: You can get the kid out of your heart by getting him out of your mind. Don't write to him anymore, and don't call him. If you have too much time on your hands, get interested in a hobby, but don't sit around doing nothing or your thoughts will wander back to the boy and you'll be tempted to pursue him.

DEAR ABBY: A guy who works with us has given up cigarettes. Not smoking. He has bummed at least one cigarette a day from each of the six guys who work with him, and of course since he never carries any of his own, there is no chance of getting one back.

We can't say we don't have any when he asks, because he knows we do, but please tell us how to cure him of this chintzy trick?

GARY AND FRANK DEAR G AND F: Next time he asks for a cigarette, offer to sell him a pack.

DEAR ABBY: My son, who is a dentist, has been married for 7 years. My problem is, his wife never does any ironing. Everything she buys is "permanent press," and after she washes it, she assumes it is ironed. Pillow cases, shirts, tablecloths and handkerchiefs all go unironed, and believe me they look it.

I am embarrassed for any professional man who must carry a crumpled handkerchief. But a dentist who must display it before his patients—well, this is too much! Abby how can I tell her what an impression her husband is making?

"D.PRESSED": If your son is embarrassed to carry a crumpled handkerchief, it's up to him to tell his wife to get on the stick and do some ironing.

DEAR ABBY: I certainly didn't notice the name of Rev. Whipple's church mentioned in your column, or he would have received 151 letters instead of 150. When the good Reverend expounded the "tragedy" of the non-virgin bride who was criticized for wearing white, I saw red! White for a bride is traditional, and if she isn't a virgin, then she has already broken the tradition, so who cares what she wears? I've never seen so much fuss made about nothing by two intelligent people who are in a position to do so much good.

When one looks around at the dreadful misery and human suffering all over the world today, if all you and Reverend Whipple have to worry about is whether or not a bride should wear white, I think it's time for both of you to look for an absorbing hobby.

You won't print this, I know. And if you do, I won't see it, because I'm off you for life. Phooey on such trifles!

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can start the day right by contacting as many persons as possible. Make arrangements to put into effect those talents which have been dormant too long. Sit down and think how to be more effective in whatever line of interest vital to you and that you enjoy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Communicating and handling travel and transportation matters well in morning is fine so that you can attend important activities later. Accumulate the data you need. Make out reports that are necessary.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be sure to go over every monetary matter that faces you and then you need not worry about finances so much. Listen to suggestions of business experts. These can be most helpful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Doing what you desire most and with less effort will help gain that which means much to you. Associates will cooperate with you. Entertain socially and get good ideas for advancing from others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are able to obtain information that is vital to you by going to the right sources. Listen respectfully to persons who come to you for assistance. Be generous with money and advice.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make the acquaintance of fine personalities who can be of assistance to you in the future. Be with people you really like. Go after personal aims positively. Dress well.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show that you admire and appreciate persons in high position. Be sure you take care of civic duties that can also help you in business. Get the backing from others that you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Escape dull routine you are in and make new contacts of worth so that you can expand your business and other horizons. Discuss with one how to attain more wisdom. Don't be misled by others.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show ingenuity in handling responsibilities instead of throwing them off on others. You will gain great favor with the one you love this evening. Show that you are a person of talents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study how to get cooperation of associates for a fine plan you have in mind. Come to a quick understanding and then do some celebrating together. You foot the bill for a change.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You find that co-workers will go along with a fine plan you have that relieves your work load. Be sure to improve your health through right treatments. Stop worrying over trifles.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day to have a good time, so get busy early making arrangements and calling congenials. Put talent to work and commercialize on it. Don't get too friendly with strangers.

PICES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your family has duties for you to perform so get at them early and they are soon behind you, thereby pleasing them no end. Make sure to pay bills. Then relax and do some entertaining.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fast and accurate thinking young people who can be a perfect delight to others. There can be much success in this chart because of the fine mentality working in conjunction with equally fine manual dexterity. Ideal chart for the supersalesman, writer, public speaker or the publicity person. The field of government would also be ideal.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel!" What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for August is now ready. "Was it something I answered and said unto you?"

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

JOB HAZARD: (Q) Until I stopped him, my boy friend seemed to be trying for the world's record in kissing. I went along with him as far as I could for three dates.

Then I got the nerve to tell him that I liked him but not his kissing. He has taken it easier since then. But the fact is that I don't like kissing at all and I'm a little worried about it.

How old is old enough for heavy kissing of the sort he seems to like? I'm almost 17. — No More Sore Lips in North Carolina.

(A) Kissing can be tremendously exciting, or it can be just a bore. When two people who do not fully respond to each other's kiss, it is likely to be a bore to at least one of them.

You do not respond to your boy friend at present. Your attitude toward him may change, but I wouldn't bet on it. If I were you I'd look around for some boy I could respond to.

ROUGH BOY: (Q) I dread the time for school to start again. It's because of this boy. He teases me all the time. He follows me. In the hall he reaches out and hits me on the arm. He calls me "Flatty."

I've talked to my counselor and the principal about him and last spring my mother wrote a note to the teacher, but he kept bothering me. What else can I do? — Hounded in New Jersey.

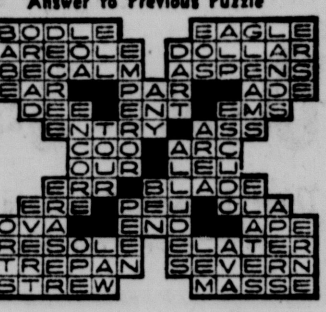

(A) The boy's rudeness is above average, but it is doubtful that he will harm you beyond deep embarrassment. To avoid him ignore him.

If he persists, ask your parents to talk to the principal, or to the boy's parents.

Economic Squeeze Painful

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This most of the work for actors and film capital is busily churning the behind-the-camera crews. Like towns the nation over, Hollywood, too, is feeling the economic pinch.

The visitor who arrives on a weekend—when the studios are shut down and the workers at home—can feel the nervous unease gripping the film community.

As of the end of last week there were, by count of the trade paper, "The Hollywood Reporter," 107 shows in production, 14 more than at this time last year.

While there are 65 theatrical films in the works, less than half are being turned out in this film capital. Thus, television dominates Hollywood, providing

Jim: "That idea of yours about see-through cards would do a lot to make bridge easier. Since the card companies won't make them, we must struggle along with general know-how."

Oswald: "Here is a hand played by Eric Murray of Toronto, which shows why he is one expert who doesn't need see-through cards."

Jim: "It also shows that Eric likes to bid, doesn't it?"

Oswald: "Eric didn't have too many high cards but he had nice distribution. West opened the ace of clubs to East's queen. East shifted to a spade."

Jim: "I can see what Eric must have done. He won the spade in dummy and led the king of diamonds."

Oswald: "If East had been a really great player, he might well have played low in which case Eric would have decided that West held the diamond ace, but East was just a normal good player. He covered with the ace. Eric ruffed, led the jack of trumps and went up with dummy's king after West played low."

Jim: "Once East showed up with the diamond ace, in addition to the king and queen of clubs, it had become obvious to Eric that he would have opened the bidding if he still held the ace of hearts. Eric also held the problem of deciding about the heart queen but he came to the conclusion that, if West had held ace-queen-small of trumps, plus the ace of clubs and some diamond honor or honors, West would have much as $250 million a year in advertising revenues—at mid-season. Besides that, the Federal Communications Commission wants to chop off one hour of evening time in which stations may broadcast network-owned programs; politicians want free or reduced rates for campaigning; they are under sharp scrutiny and even attack for the content of their programs, particularly the use of violence.

In the future, there is the competitive threat of cable and subscription television as well as the use of tape cassettes which, enthusiasts believe, will ultimately turn individual TV sets into sophisticated record-players with pictures.

On the surface, however, it seems like business as usual in Hollywood. Most of the 107 shows in production are network programs—series and specials. There are fewer new series to be launched in September than usual: 21 instead of the usual 30 or more. ABC, which has been ruthlessly weeding out its schedule, will use 11 of them. CBS, which is busily attempting to change its audience focus, has radical last-minute changes in its schedule. NBC has four, unless one counts the complete remodeling of "The Virginian" into "The Men From Shiloh" as a new show.

On the economy side, there is talk of fewer specials, of budget cuts which reduce the size of mob scenes, reduce if not eliminate expensive location shooting away from the studio, and of encouraging the use of less expensive guest stars.

Among the new series are eight situation comedies, four variety shows, including Red Skelton's half-hour on NBC, and 10 dramas. The major networks are still wooing the young (18 to 35) viewers, so the emphasis is on stories about young people. In the drama category, it appears that the success of ABC's "Mod Squad" will be so impressive that we will soon be watching shows about young lawyers (two different series), young doctors and young rebels—of the 1776 vintage. There's even a name for them—"Now dramas."

Saigon Task Force Cambodia Drive—Toll of Reds

SAIGON (UPI) — A task force of 2,500 South Vietnamese troops today reported killing 39 guerrilla soldiers and finding the bodies of 26 others in the first day of a new drive across the border into Cambodia.

The government soldiers pushed across the frontier Sunday in a campaign to keep Highway 1 between Saigon and Phnom Penh open. The thrust brought to about 20,000 the number of South Vietnamese troops operating in Cambodia.

Commanders on the scene reported light overall fighting but said one battalion of rangers, backed by air and artillery strikes, killed 39 guerrillas after crossing the border southeast of the Cambodian town of Kompong Trabeac.

South Vietnamese losses in the fight were put at eight wounded, with government troops reporting 19 Communist soldiers captured along with 11 weapons. No Americans were involved in the drive.

Other troopers in the South Vietnamese push found the bodies of 26 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese who had been killed in air strikes preceding the cross-border offensive west of Saigon in the salient known as the Parrot's Beak.

Nineteen other guerrillas were reported killed in the same area Sunday by South Vietnamese troops not involved in the new push across the border.

Allied losses, spokesmen said, were five men killed and five wounded.

Officials reports from Phnom Penh listed light fighting elsewhere in Cambodia, with Cambodian troops trying for the third week to drive North Vietnamese units off the Kirirom Plateau 56 miles west-southwest of Phnom Penh on the deepwater port at Kompong Som.

Military spokesmen said American units in Vietnam encountered no significant resistance in patrols Sunday. A 20-round mortar attack against the headquarters of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division 36 miles north of Saigon caused light casualties.

Six flights of B52 bombers came in overnight to hammer suspected Communist infiltration routes all along the Cambodian and Laotian borders. Military spokesmen reported additional strikes in the two neighboring nations.

Pentagon Reshuffling May Be in the Works

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon has summoned Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Deputy Secretary David Packard to meet with him today to consider reshuffling the Pentagon, now under fire for heavy cost overruns.

The conference is one of a string of high-level meetings at the Western White House designed to reshape the massive Defense Department and to set priorities for the 1972 federal budget.

Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, national security affairs adviser, also will sit in on the meetings during a busy day for the President who took time out Sunday to attend a thrilling baseball game at Anaheim Stadium in Anaheim, Calif.

Nixon and his advisers will have before them a far-reaching report by a blue ribbon panel on Defense Department reorganization headed by Gilbert W. Fitchugh, chairman of the board of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. The year-long study will be made public Tuesday in Washington.

The President also was expected to discuss strategy for obtaining Senate approval of the $19.5 billion defense procurement bill and the next stage of the anti-ballistic missile system.

Setting the stage for defense budget talks Tuesday and a domestic budget renewal Wednesday, Nixon scheduled a 2 p.m. EDT meeting on the national economy.

Included among the advisers at the session on economic trends were George Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget; Caspar Weinberger, Schult deputy; Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; John D. Ehrlichman, executive director of the domestic council, and Kissinger.

Nixon, the nation's No. 1 spectator sportsman, flew by helicopter from his villa overlooking the Pacific here to watch an 11-inning game Sunday as the California Angels defeated the Washington Senators.

Soviets Ahead in A-Subs: Rickover

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover said the Soviet Union may be ahead of the United States in undersea power and warned a State Department plan to sell nuclear submarines to allies could worsen the balance.

Rickover asserted the poor security among European nations might give the Soviets access to U.S. propulsion technology, even though the nuclear subs in question are older models.

The comments of the admiral, known as father of the nuclear submarine and a long-time champion of naval strength, were made in March before the Joint Atomic Energy Committee and released Sunday.

Rickover also said the Soviet Union had asked the United States for one of its most advanced computers to use in connection with an experimental nuclear accelerator at Serpukhov.

He said Soviet ballistic missile submarines are now stationed off both American coasts, and that its total nuclear fleet may outnumber that of the United States.

"The Soviets are capable of starting tomorrow the biggest war there has ever been," Rickover said, "and frankly I am not confident of the outcome."

Rickover said the long-standing State Department proposal to sell used nuclear subs to allies has been opposed by other government agencies. "Only the State Department has kept the matter alive," he said.

"The State Department has very little appreciation for the value of our Polaris submarine propulsion technology and its strategic implications," Rickover said. "They have been trying to give it away for years."

He said a State Department official recently referred to nuclear propulsion technology as "Admiral Rickover's little plaything."

Rickover testified the Soviet Union asked U. S. scientists to arrange for a CDC6600 computer, described as the nation's best, to be installed in Russia in return for scientific information produced by the accelerator.

Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., chairman of the joint committee, said his panel blocked the proposal.

"Even if we furnished the Soviets a U.S. computer and could assure it was not used for defense purposes, having this powerful unit at Serpukhov would probably free other computers of Soviet design for defense work," Rickover said.

He indicated the Soviet Union apparently made the request in 1969 through Dr. Wolfgang Panofsky, director of the linear accelerator laboratory at Stanford University.

The Rickover testimony was released simultaneously with the opening of Senate debate on the $19.2 billion military procurement authorization bill, a measure containing funds for a number of advanced weapons systems, including submarines and ships.

The size of the bill is expected to be hotly contested by Senate advocates of reduced military spending. Rickover said these sessions ignore "the cold hard facts" of what he said is a deteriorating defense posture.

Pegged to Sugar Harvest

Fidel Ready to Step Down, If...

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has offered to resign if the Cuban people are dissatisfied with his government's failure to reach the goal of 10 million tons of sugar in this year's harvest.

In a speech over Havana Radio Sunday, Castro accepted full responsibility for the failure of the drop and said if his people want another leader he would resign.

The government had extended the sugar season in an effort to harvest a record crop, but failed. The Cuban leader said this effort had strained Cuba's economy and led to discontent among the people.

He warned that the Cuban people can expect five more lean years before economic conditions begin to improve.

Castro's speech marked the 17th anniversary of the abortive attack on Moncada Barracks in Santiago Province. From this attack, the Castro movement took its name — the 26th of July Movement.

Castro also announced that the hands and death mask of slain guerrilla leader Ernesto "Che" Guevara now are in Cuba. They will be put on public display in Havana at a shrine to open in October.

The premier did not reveal how or when Che's hands and death mask reached Cuba, but he said former Bolivian Interior

1 Dead, 6 Hurt In Houston Race Riot Gunfight

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The chairman of the black militant People's Party II was killed and six other persons wounded Sunday night during police said, an exchange of gunfire between Negroes and police. It followed a rally protesting the arrest earlier Sunday of two Negroes.

Hundreds of persons milled through a sealed off 10 block area of southeast Houston as heavily armed officers swept through the area and arrested 40 to 50 persons on various charges.

The shooting broke out when police said, they were fired on by a group of men on rooftop. Officers said they returned the fire, bringing down seven men, among them Carl Hampton, 21, chairman of the black activist group. Also wounded was Roy B. Haile Jr., 24, who was white.

Police said he was a member of the Students for a Democratic Society. His condition was poor.

Hampton died in a hospital several hours after the shooting.

Police said they confiscated "numerous weapons" from the party headquarters building.

The rally was held at the headquarters of the People's Party II, a black group which officials said was similar to the Black Panther party. It was seen also as the offshoot of recent disputes between two Houston residential areas and city officials over a new garbage dump near a Negro area.

Education Bill Fireworks Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — An signaling disapproval but avoiding a head-on collision with Congress on the issue.

The House passed the compromise spending bill—cut nearly $350 million from the original Senate version—by a vote of 357 to 30.

Among the programs involved were $551 million for aid to school districts where attendance is swelled by nearby federal installations, $167.7 million for educational grants to college students, $243 million for direct loans to help students pay their college bills.

The compromise includes a series of House provisions designed to bar the use of federal funds to force the closing of schools, busing of pupils, or transfer of students over parental protest, to carry out desegregation programs.

Similar provisions have stirred civil rights controversy in the past. But Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson said they would pose no problem.

Despite the criticism, there were indications Nixon might stop short of a veto of the bill, in part because of the warning of Republican congressional leaders that it would be difficult to sustain one.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Nixon might let the appropriation bill become law without his signature, thus

Updating of ROK Before U.S. Cutback

SEOUL (AP) — The United States has agreed that the modernization of South Korea's armed forces will precede any withdrawal of American troops.

Defense Minister Jung Nae-huk said today in a report on his meetings in Honolulu last week with Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard.

Jung told the National Assembly's foreign affairs and defense committees that Packard and his aides agreed to postpone talks on the U.S. troop cutback until the two governments agree on plans for the modernization of Korean forces.

Jung said Korean and American military leaders would meet in Seoul this week to discuss detailed programs to modernize South Korea's 600,000-man forces.

Jung denied reports that the United States intends to put into effect its plan to withdraw 20,000 of its 62,000-man force stationed in Korea with or without Korea's consent.

The United States also agreed at Honolulu to provide the South Korean Air Force with a squadron of 52 reconnaissance planes shortly, he said.

In Washington, the Defense Department declined immediate comment on Jung's report.

Last Thursday, Pentagon officials said the United States had agreed to help stabilize the air defense of South Korea, but they indicated that would occur during a reduction in U.S. ground forces.

Meanwhile, American diplomatic officials in Seoul had said Thursday that "there is no change" in the plan for the partial troop withdrawal.

The Defense Department spokesmen said that a number of U.S. Air Force units now stationed in Korea on short-term rotation would be supplanted with units assigned for longer terms. There was no mention of an actual increase in the number of U.S. warplanes in Korea.

The Rickover testimony was released simultaneously with
